Ryg, Helander vie for clerk's job

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

A Democrat has filled the Lake County Clerk's seat for the past 24 years. In what is the most visible race in Lake County, Republicans are trying to regain control of the office Nov. 8.

Democratic candidate Kathy Ryg and Republican candidate Willard Helander are vying for the seat.

Both County Clerk candidates hope to implement new programs to greater expand the services of the office to the residents of Lake County.

Both would like to increase the accessibility of vital records such as birth and death certificates, marriage licenses and voter registration.

Ryg said she would like to see a south Lake County branch of the County Clerk's office that would offer full services to residents in south Lake County. Helander noted she would work with township and village officials in expanding the services more locally through computerization. Ryg said she would like to explore that avenue as well.

Both want to work toward alleviating election judge shortages but have differing ways of doing so.

Ryg has suggested opening up the arena to employers and encouraging them to allow their employees to serve as election judges much like jury duty. Ryg would also expand village clerk roles in registering voters, such as allowing them to register voters at school open houses and more convenient times and places.

In addition to working with employers, Helander said she would like to explore the idea of working with high school and area colleges in encouraging students to be election judges.

Ryg has also noted that she would like to open county clerk services to credit card accessibility. She said businesses and business people regularly conduct business over the phone, and she said she would like to offer credit card service at the county clerk level as well.

Kathleen A. Ryg

In addition, Ryg said she would work toward simplifying campaign disclosure forms and statements of economic interest.

Helander, too, said the clerk's office needs to operate more like a business. She would like to see the department computerized to open up communication between county departments and elected officials.

In this age of business streamlining, Helander also noted that the office could have realized a $17,000 savings by mailing See CLERK page B2

Antioch area voters face many election decisions

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Antioch voters will decide on many races at the general election on Nov. 8.

Voters will choose a governor, secretary of state, state representative, county sheriff, treasurer, county clerk, county board, and school referendum.

In the 62nd District, incumbent Republican Robert Churchill of Lake Villa faces Phyllis Lucas, a former trustee of Lindenhurst.

For county sheriff, Clint Grinnell is challenged by Democrat Richard Jablonski.

In the District 1 County Board spot, voters can choose between Democrat Grant Farrell or Republican Judy Martini.

The county treasurer choice is incumbent Jack "Red" Anderson or Arlene Demb.

The Antioch Community High School has asked for an increase in the tax rate from 1.32 percent assessed valuation to 1.62 percent of assessed valuation. The increase would amount to an average of 11 percent in the tax rate.

Howl is a haunting success

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Antioch's first Halloween Howl was a big success despite serious problems with high winds. Claude LeMere, downtown development director, estimates over 5,000 people attended the weekend event.

According to LeMere, many of the haunted walkways were built with thin gauge PVC piping. "We did this to avoid serious injuries," said LeMere. As a result, the 35 mph winds on Friday, blew down work that had begun at 4 a.m.

"At 9 a.m., everything we had done was torn down," explained LeMere. "That left us four hours behind schedule."

In desperation, LeMere put a call in to the Antioch Public Works and District 34 to help. Employees of the public works helped to rebuild the walkways, and school buses were then used as windblocks.

"I put a call in to Dan (Dr. Daniel Burke, Dist. 34 superintendent) and got an immediate response. In 10 minutes, he brought over some buses. It saved it," said LeMere. "That's what Antioch is all about. When you need help, it is there."

By Friday afternoon, everything was in place, on schedule. "We refused to give up," said LeMere.

Children and adults alike were delighted with the haunted walkways, pumpkin contests, costume contests, storytelling, and bonfire. Tom Hausman of PM&L entranced the Saturday night audience with some not-too-scary Halloween tales.

LeMere hopes to expand the Halloween Howl next year. He hopes to get more volunteers to help out with next year's event. "It was healthy supervised fun," he said.

Antioch High referendum on ballot

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Voters in the Antioch Community High School District 117 have the opportunity to vote on an education fund referendum Nov. 8. This referendum proposes to increase the tax rate for educational purposes from 1.32 percent to 1.62 percent.

While the overall budget last year, as well as this year, is balanced, a deficit of $828,043 in the education fund still exists. With the proposed increase, the debt will be paid off in three years, and then the money will be used to counteract the effects of the tax cap.

If the referendum is approved by voters, additional staff will be hired to lower teacher-student ratio. Some of the proposals include modernizing classrooms, increasing the curriculum, a reduction of student fees, increasing technology, adding a fine arts program, restoring activities cut, and to prepare for flex time scheduling.

The school district has prepared a flyer with useful information regarding the referendum which voters should receive before the election. In addition, Better Education/Sensible Taxes (BEST) has been circulating a newsletter opposing the referendum.

Martini says she'll be there for people

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Judy Martini, the Republican candidate for Lake County Board (Dist. 1), has made a pledge to "be there for the people of Antioch." Martini has been involved in a number of community issues already including her stand against the Antioch riverboat proposal. She is a director on the Waterway Management Agency, a member of Citizens Against Unsafe Electricity (CAUSE), and a former member of the Special Area Management Planning Commission (SAMP) which was abolished when the Environmental Impact Study was completed earlier this year.

Age 42, Martini has lived in Antioch for 18 years, graduating from Richmond-Burton High School. She studied environmental horticulture at the College of Lake County and is a licensed personal assistant and Realtor at RE/MAX Advantage in Antioch.

Martini lives with her son, Jesse, and is a member of St. Peter Church in Antioch. In April, she won the Republican spot on the ballot from incumbent, Antioch Township Supervisor Jim Fields.

When asked about the financial difficulties of Antioch Community High School, she said, "I think there are a lot of problems with the school, like pieces of a puzzle. One of the pieces is that the state is not paying their share."

Martini points out state financial aid of schools runs between 2 and 53 percent. "Antioch is only receiving 2 percent," she said. Martini also cites an over-reliance on property taxes.

Regarding the Lake Villa Unit School District proposal, Martini declined to take a position. "I need a lot more information first," she said. "There may be a need, given the growth projections for the area, but I need to see more financial information first."

Martini also promises, if elected, to push for a feasibility study regarding sewer service to the unincorporated areas of Antioch Township. While she admits such a study may prove the proposal to be too costly or even impossible given the topography of the area, she firmly believes a feasibility study is needed first.

Farrell says officials need to try harder

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Grant Farrell, Democratic candidate for County Board (Dist. 1), believes his experience in both business and charitable organizations will help to make him a good public official. Farrell is currently the national chairperson of a not-for-profit organization.

"I'm a believer; we can take care of everyone's needs," explains Farrell. "We just don't try hard enough."

Farrell is a life-long resident of Lake County. He was raised in Waukegan and attended Roosevelt University.

Farrell resides in Antioch with his wife, Debra, and their sons Andrew and Bret. Farrell owns his own business consulting firm. A member of the Experimental Aircraft Association, Farrell is also serving his third term as an elected official on the executive Health and Welfare Board of the Plumbers Local 93.

In addition, he has completed his second term as president of the Illinois branch of the Orton Dyslexia Society and is now chairperson for the national board. Many Antioch residents know Farrell from his work with the Antioch Swim Team Board.

Regarding the problems at Antioch Community High School, Farrell said, "Residents are getting conflicting messages from the school. I don't know who is right and who isn't right."

Regarding the Lake Villa Unit

Grant Farrell

School District proposal, Farrell would rather see the issues at ACHS worked out. "I'm not really sold on one big district. I don't think, education wise, kids get the best education," he explains. "The larger the school, the less parental involvement."

Farrell believes parental involvement in a child's school is crucial to improving education. He also places the blame squarely on the state.

"First of all, our state has to live up to their funding obligations," he explained. "The state has failed miserably."

One of Farrell's ideas for change is to make schools more multi-faceted. "I think it is a shame we can't do more for the kids," said Farrell. "For example, a swimming pool. We live around so many lakes and yet so many

English program goes beyond four walls

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The new freshman English program at Antioch Community High School not only challenges students to read, write and discuss the material during class, but has taken students beyond the four walls of the classroom and even outside Antioch. After reading Up Country by Alden Carter, freshman students wrote the author about questions regarding the book and have even begun a correspondence with Carter.

The innovative program, which has students reading and discussing a major play or novel every nine weeks as well as writing and presenting speeches, is an interactive process. Instead of simply reading an assignment and answering questions, students become more actively involved through discussion, projects, and peer review. A student's work is reviewed by fellow classmates and peer suggestions are incorporated in the rewrites.

"We get into wonderful discussions," said Ann Kakacek, one of the six freshman English teachers. "It takes more time, but students get stronger by the end of the year." Kakacek said the department spent two years writing the new program.

Students complete projects at the end of each nine week session. Projects include writing a letter to the author, redrawing the book cover, writing an outline for a sequel, rewriting the ending, and even creating radio and video broadcasts from scenes in the books. "They each do it differently," said Kakacek.

Students chose to write to Carter, after reading Up Country. The book is about a child of an alcoholic and his attempt to align his internal reality with the harsher truths of his life.

"This book is important to the kids," said Kakacek. "We teach it with love. The love is there. But, it is a heavy book."

Through their letters, students asked Carter several questions, not only about the book, but also about life in general. Carter has sent back several letters and students are hoping to invite him to speak at the school.

Carter has an impressive list of credits which include young adult fiction as well as non-fiction. He lives in Marshfield, Wis. and has spoken frequently to adult and young adult groups.

A scholarship fund is being established in the name of Jim Corrigan, an English teacher who taught at Antioch Community High School for 30 years. Corrigan had such a great impact on the lives of his students, they want to establish the fund as a memorial. Corrigan was also the manager of the Antioch Pool for 20 years.

A former student, who wishes to remain anonymous, has a challenge for other former students and community members. Any amount pledged for this fund will not only be matched by him, but will also be matched by the company he works for.

Anyone wishing to contribute to this fund should make checks payable to the Jim Corrigan Scholarship Fund and mail it to Antioch Community High School, 1133 S. Main Street, Antioch, Ill. 60002.

Police seek victim's identity

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Kenosha County Sheriff's detectives continue their search to learn the identity of a murder victim found Monday, Oct. 24, in a wooded area north of the St. Benedict Abbey in Salem, Wis., one-half mile north of the Illinois and Wisconsin border. The charred remains of the man were found at approximately 4:30 p.m. that afternoon.

The autopsy has determined the man, estimated to be between the age of 20 and 35, was beaten and stabbed numerous times. After he died, he was then set on fire.

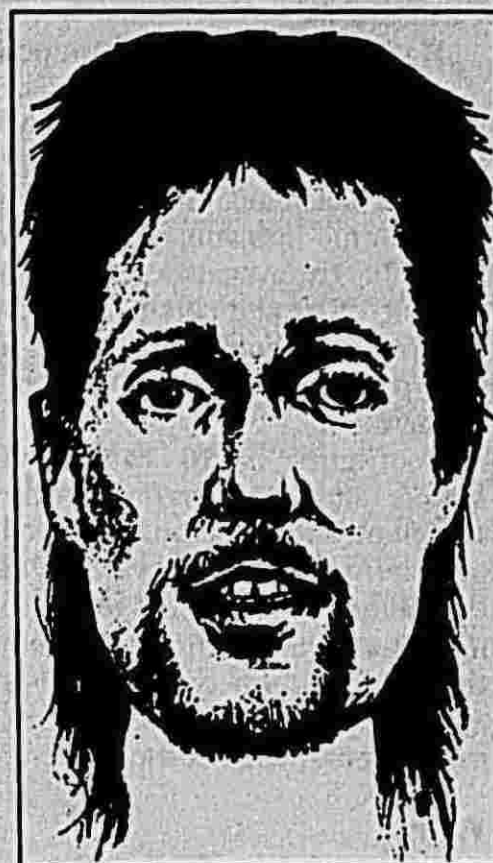

Three knives were found at the scene, which may have been used as the murder weapons, although crime lab testing is not yet complete. At this time, detectives believe the victim was killed at another location, then dumped and burned at the site where the body was found.

The victim is described as a white male, weighing approximately 130 to 150 pounds, 5'6" to 5'9" with a slim build and missing and decaying teeth. He was wearing a blue denim jacket and black denim jeans, woman's size 10 regular. He had on white Reebok tennis shoes size 10, white cotton socks, and a black tee shirt.

A thin gold chain was found on the victim's neck and he was wearing two rings on his right hand: a Harley Davidson ring and a silver skull ring on his pinkie. Keys for a 1987 or older Dodge/Plymouth/Chrysler car or truck were found on the body. So far, the vehicle has not been found. Along with the keys, a metal cigarette case and eye glass frames for either sun or prescription glasses were also found on the body. The victim had blood type A-positive.

In addition to seeking the killer or killers, police are asking residents for help in identifying the victim. Anyone with information about a missing person who may match the description are asked to call the Kenosha County Sheriff's Department Detective Bureau at (414) 656-730.

At this point, detectives have followed up on more than 80 tips regarding the man's identity, without any success and are hoping someone will recognize him from the description or picture.

No serious injuries in bus accident

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Twenty-eight people from the Metro Christian Center in Rockford were very lucky this weekend. Despite the fact the school bus they were traveling in on their way to Great America flipped over, there were no serious injuries.

"No one was seriously injured," said Lieutenant Charles Watkins of the Antioch Police Department.

However, the driver, Terry Carlson of Rockford was ticketed for failure to reduce speed and a driver's license classification violation.

The accident occurred at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 30, when a bus load of young people, age 11 to 18, were on their way to Fright Fest at Great America. According to Watkins, the driver had just passed over Route 59 heading east on Route 173, when he came upon some cars attempting to make a left turn onto Hillside.

Since most of the passengers on the bus were minors, rescue workers from Antioch, as well as surrounding areas, took the young people to St. Therese, Victory, and Condell hospitals. All were subsequently released.

Wow

ACHS senior, Brad Rubash, did an excellent job carrying the ball into the end zone seven times during Antioch's Oct. 15 Homecoming game. When all was said and done, Antioch was victorious over Mundelein High School 52-30. Brad's parents, Norma and Duane Rubash of Antioch are extremely proud of Brad's efforts on behalf of his team, as is his older brother, Brian. Brad also had many years of training as a speed skater and was the National Champion in 1991. Something tells me the muscle and stamina Brad build up through his skating gave him the power needed to run that ball into the end zone so many times. Congratulations, everyone!

Special day

After reading the story about "Moose the Trick or Treating Dog," I received a call from Margaret Johnston telling me all about her Irish setter named Clyde. Margaret and her husband George never had any children, in a way Clyde was like their child. They did many things with him, and for him, that many of us do for our children. Each year they actually had a birthday party for Clyde, held on the day and the month he came to live with them—May 15.

The morning of May 15, Margaret would fix Clyde a special people type breakfast, rather than his normal ration of dog food. Then George would walk Clyde over to the small neighborhood grocery store, where everyone knew and loved him. As they entered the establishment, George would say "Clyde it is your birthday, go pick out your favorite candy bar."

Each and every time he would strut down the aisle, head straight for the Tootsie Roll display and return with his favorite treat, and had it over to George. George would then give him a dollar bill and tell him to pay Ernie for the candy. Clyde would carry the lone dollar in his mouth to Ernie, who was patiently waiting at the cash register. George would pick up the change and instruct Clyde to thank Ernie for letting him shop. Clyde would bark and extend his paw. On the walk back home, George would feed him the Tootsie Roll one section at a time and both Margaret and George swear he would re-enter their home with a smile on his face. Dumb animals indeed.

Clyde died this past August at the age of 16, which translates into 112 people years.

—Shop Antioch— Times are changing in Antioch

With the turning back of the clocks this past weekend, I took a moment to think back to the Antioch I knew as a kid. What Antioch was like 20 or 30 years ago.

I remember seeing people wander up and down Main St. on Friday and Saturday nights as they patiently waited for a table to open up at Thompson's Restaurant. People would drive for miles to enjoy a Thompson's steak. Although the building no longer stands, the memories of Thompson's are still with us.

While window shopping, you'd see shoes, apparel for men and women, carpeting, a meat market, hardware, drug stores, furniture, antiques, paint supplies, appliances, banks, taverns, a pool hall, grocery stores, motorcycles, health food, ice cream fountain. In those days you would stop in at Wilton's Electric (was next door to the Vault) for your appliances. Or you could enjoy a light lunch or some scrumptious ice cream at Snow White's (the Moose Hall).

You could find furniture shop (now Antioch Schwinn) on Main St., and you could buy hardware at V&S (the newly renovated Williams Bros. Emporium). Antioch boasted several apparel shops for men and women. You'll remember Stanley's, Gibbs & Jensen's, Walshes, Marianne's, and what then were the "new shops" in town (and are still with us, BJ's Fashions and Four Squires).

We had a choice of drugstores on Main St.: King's Drugs and Reeves. At Reeves, ice cream was 10 cents a scoop. I remember scraping together $1 once (with visions of the world's biggest ice cream cone dancing in my head) and was told I had a four-scoop maximum. I'm sure many of us remember the ladies of Reeves with fond memories.

Back then, Antioch even had its own department store: Barnstables. You could find clothing for men, women and children, all under one roof (currently Flo's). Budding artists gathered at Bernadettes for the latest in paint supplies and lessons (now JJ Blinkers). People banked at the corner of Lake and Main at the State Bank and First National (the Vault Restaurant and Kirkpatrick & Dahl). Who would ever have thought then that the "Vault" would come to mean a place to enjoy good food?

Lake St. was the place for grocery shopping, with two grocery stores. It seemed like Antioch always had a Hallmark store (until just recently), and the General Store opened where the old shoe store was (now Choosey Child), right next door to the old Pool Hall (Elite Embroidery). I remember people in Antioch being amazed when the world's largest Ben Franklin came to town—Antioch had finally made global history.

For some of you reading this, it may seem like these memories are recent. You may remember Antioch as it was in the "early" days. Since I was just a kid 30 years ago, I have probably forgotten a lot about Antioch. Please share with me your memories and photos of Antioch. Let's help our children realize that the Antioch of today came from the Antioch of yesterday.

Antioch Elementary plans new sports programs

Antioch School Dist. 34 has announced plans to pilot new programs during this school year in boys' and girls' basketball, volleyball and intramural sports. "Basically," said school board member Mike Perrone, "we are planning to add teams at the sixth grade level to allow more youngsters to play these sports and improve their skills."

According to Upper Grade

School Principal, Debbie Kerr-Carpenter, a number of area schools already have sixth grade teams so the availability of games is already present. Carpenter added that she has found great interest and support from sixth grade parents for the formation of these new teams. "Offering programs for students which meet their needs is what schools should be all about," she said. "A clear need exists for these additions, and I am very happy that our board of education is aware of and supportive of that."

Doctor charged with drug distribution

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Dr. John B. Bellucci, of Antioch, was charged with 27 separate counts of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance and arrested Oct. 28.

The charges stem from investigations by the Illinois Department of Professional Regulation, investigators from the Lake County State's Attorney's office; the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration; the Evanston, Buffalo Grove, and Waukegan police departments; along with the Lake County Sheriff's Department.

The 55-year-old doctor lives in Antioch, and has offices in Waukegan, Wauconda, and Richmond.

The charges are a result of a 10-month investigation, which was initiated by the Illinois Department of Professional Regulation.

"The problems in this country caused by drug abuse are greatly increased when a licensed physician illegally distributes narcotics," said State's Attorney Michael Waller.

"Illegal drug trafficking by professionals will not be tolerated in Lake County."

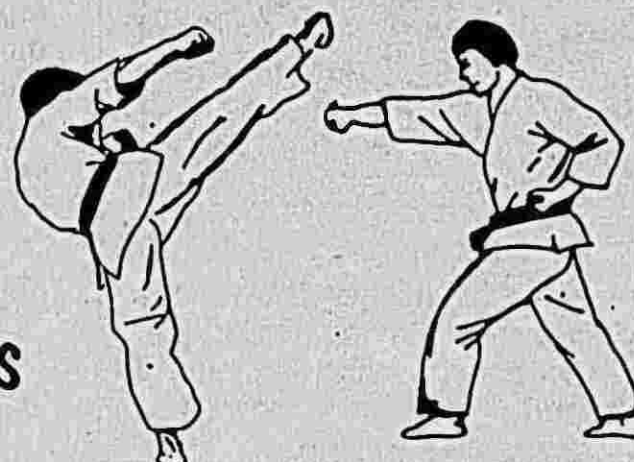

During the investigation, undercover officers were used to visit Bellucci resulting in numerous illegal prescriptions. According to a statement from Waller's office, "Many of the prescriptions written by Dr. Bellucci were for narcotic drugs, and were issued by him with his knowledge that the person receiving the prescription had no medical need for it."

LETTER TO THE Editor

Martini replies

Editor:

I wish to set the record straight on a recent "blurb" that was in Lip Service about me.

First of all, I am curious if this caller even lives in the Nippersink Channel area, for if they did they should be aware of the fact that I had moved away from this area two years ago—four months before the channel started to be dredged. The caller's statement that the only reason this project is being undertaken is because I live there is inaccurate. I live in Antioch.

I, in fact, have kept my promises as director on the Waterway Agency. Prior to my term, the direction of the board was to keep only main navigational channels dredged. Through my direction, and with the help of the other fine board members, over 16 private channels have been dredged in the past two years. Many other channels were raked and debris removed, thus improving water quality and safety on the Chain. The agency has also received grants for shoreline protection projects both in Lake and McHenry Counties, and we have been working on stabilizing draw-down with IDOT. I am still pursuing a mandatory water safety course for boaters similar to what is being done in other states.

The Nippersink Channel Restoration Project has been one of the most successful projects that the agency has undertaken. Over 50,000 cubic yards of material has been removed so far from this channel. The EPA Dept. of Conservation, Fish and Wildlife and the Waterway Agency have jointly selected the rest of this channel to be dredged, along with others in the near proximity for the island creation and wetland restoration pilot project which is being engineered by the Corps, using the dredged material to create the island. The regulators selected this site because "it was the best location for the project," massive sedimentation loads in the channels, and the soil suitability for creations of islands, not because of who lives on the channel frontage.

Unfortunately, this is the second time I've had to publicly correct the misinformed caller. The truth is that the area in front of where I used to live is still not dredged, but those homeowners are patiently waiting for their time to come. They have seen the dredge in operation and they know what the master plan is for their area. They know it will take a cooperative effort from all the regulators involved to improve water quality.

I only wish that this caller had enough integrity to call either myself direct, or the Waterway Agency for accurate information instead of trying to slander me in the paper. I feel this caller was trying to embarrass me right before election, but my record is not embarrassing. Just talk to any boater who had ever gotten stuck in the muck of any one of those 16 channels we dredged recently and they know I've kept my promise. The truth prevails.

"Environmentally, it can only enhance the waterways," explains Martini. "But, it might be too expensive."

Regarding the proposed Route 53 extension, Martini seems opposed to the plan at this time. "In my opinion, traffic begets traffic," she said. "We would just be linking up to more traffic." Instead, Martini proposes an alternative. She suggests expanding and improving existing roads may better serve the County.

Martini points to her record of public service in the community. "I've been there for the people for many years," she said. "I have always been there and I always will be."

Farrell

people here can't swim. A pool could serve the entire community."

He believes schools can become a community center by building new libraries at school sites, avoiding duplication of services. Farrell also suggests providing more adult education at schools in the evening, eliminating the need for new community colleges, similar to the Roosevelt University programs.

"Schools are the key to the whole economy," said Farrell. "If we don't do well there, we don't do well anywhere. We have to look at the use of the facilities. A high school with a library and a pool become the focal points of the community. We have to get smarter in what we do with public education."

Farrell is lukewarm about sewers in unincorporated Antioch Township. "In some areas it makes sense, especially the low-lying land near the lakes," he explains. "In other areas, I don't know if it would be feasible."

He also does not feel the expansion of Route 53 is a good idea. "We need to improve existing roads first," said Farrell. "The traffic flow is poor. I'm not for Route 53 at this point."

All in all, Farrell believes his experience makes him the best candidate for the job. "I feel my experience will make me a good public official."

Punishing voters

Editor:

On Nov. 8, for the second time this year we have been asked to increase our tax burden. Other than the well-worn cliché "It's needed for a quality education," there is little or no valid reason to do so.

Like immature children, the ACHS, Dist. 117 School Board doesn't understand, much less comprehend what "no" means. Like parents, responsible taxpayers keep saying "Improve Your Performance," then we'll discuss increasing your allowance.

Observing board actions for the past two to three years one cannot help but wonder if the board isn't now trying to punish taxpayers for voting no. Didn't the board just destroy the school's in-house maintenance and transportation capabilities? There are some astute taxpayers who believe the liquidation of vital and paid-for-assets (buses), along with an experienced and well funded work force is less than prudent. Especially just for a short-term paper gain.

Being wise and informed, the people must once again out-vote the large solid black vote of the professional educator.

Circuit Systems stored approximately 700 55-gallon drums and containers filled with potassium cyanide, lead, hydrochloric acid, and other hazardous wastes in five areas at the site. On April 12 and 15, 1993, Illinois EPA inspectors discovered violations including the leaking of these chemicals into the ground.

One inspector reportedly found water with an oily sheen running into a nearby storm sewer, which leads to Sequoit Creek. A number of student environmental projects and experiments are conducted farther downstream from the plant.

"Basically, we have a unit on water," said Bob Brown a teacher at Antioch Upper Grade School. "We take the kids out and do six research projects. They do water testing for oxygen level, carbon dioxide, phosphates, water hardness, a sediment test, and visibility."

Fortunately, students were not doing any testing last April. "Last April there was flooding," said Brown. Brown does not think students were exposed to the harmful chemicals since the creek projects are done in the fall. "We just finished our projects," he said.

Other violations include a failure to indicate on the drums the contents and storage dates, failure to train employees regarding the handling of hazardous waste, failure to provide an emergency communication device or plan, failure to keep written records, and failure to submit hazardous waste reports to state officials.

On Monday and Tuesday, Patel met with officials regarding payment for a remedial investigation as well as a feasibility study. He was unavailable for comment regarding those meetings.

Circuit Systems and Patel face a maximum civil penalty of $50,000 along with a $10,000 a day penalty for water pollution violations. Other violations have a maximum civil penalty of $25,000 for each day they continued.

83-year-old sinks hole-in-one with homemade club

It took 83 years, but Antioch's Tony Kraemer accomplished what every golfer dreams: A hole in one.

While taking advantage of the unseasonably warm weather Oct. 23, Kraemer teamed up with his daughter Jackie Hesser, granddaughter Michelle Sator and grandson-in-law Erik Sator for a foursome at Brae Lock Golf Course in Grayslake.

'I have never seen one live. It was a great feeling.'
— Erik Sator, golf partner

The Antioch resident is also a regular at Hunter's Country Club in Richmond.

After 13 holes, Kraemer opted for a 4 iron on the 14th hole, which is a 148-yd. par three. Kraemer actually built this particular club as well as the others in his set.

The 83-year-old teed up, aimed and stroked the ball. Unfortunately for Kraemer, he did not witness his golf feat as he was picking up his tee after he hit the ball.

"We were all cheering for it to go in, but he was picking up his tee, so he didn't see it go in the hole," recalled Erik.

Fallen leaves on the green also prevented the onlookers from knowing for sure if the ball actually dropped into the cup.

"It was rolling and then it just disappeared," Erik said.

When they approached the hole and picked the ball out of the cup, they knew for sure and celebrated the once-in-a-lifetime golfing achievement.

"I have never seen one live. It was a great feeling," Erik remarked.

As for Kraemer, now he has something to brag about during 19th-hole bull sessions. He may also find himself bombarded with customers, hoping the golf-club maker will add that special touch to their clubs, particularly those 4 irons.

Kickers finish year with record number of wins

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Although Antioch soccer ended abruptly in the second round of the regional by losing to Highland Park in a shootout, Sequoia kickers accomplished a lot as a team and as individuals this year.

First and foremost, Antioch captured its second North Suburban Conference title in as many years, although they had to share the crown with Libertyville and Stevenson.

Antioch also set a new school record for the number of victories in a season by posting an 18-4-2 record, which is two victories more than the previous record of 16 wins in 1989. The Sequoias can also boast another record in the shutout department in which Antioch defenders prevented their opponents from scoring 12 times.

"Twelve shutouts. That says a lot about our defense," said Coach Brad Wilson. "Out of 24 games, that's not too bad."

Ace goalie Keith Jackson played a large role in the 12 shutouts, which is why he was named an honorable mention on the All-Sectional team.

As a team, Antioch kickers also captured crowns in two competitive tournaments, including the Rockford Tournament and the Main East Tournament.

"One of our goals this year was to win the Rockford Tournament. We did that. We also went on to win the Maine East Tournament, so we had some really strong points in our season," Wilson said.

During the Rockford Tournament, Antioch defeated Madison Memorial who won the state championship in Wisconsin last year. Antioch also battled Rockford Boylan in the championship game. Boylan went on to win its sectional.

Individual standouts include Jon Zora, who earned All-Sectional honors, and Joe Earl, who was named to the All-State team. Zora combined 11 goals with 8 assists this year, while Earl led the team with 15 goals and 11 assists. The team also set a school record with 61 assists this year. The team totaled 71 goals.

"Along with team honors, we had a lot of individual honors," Wilson said. "We're proud of what we accomplished."

Against Highland Park, Earl gave the Sequoias a 1-0 lead in the first half. Highland Park scored to tie the game with less than 10 minutes to play. In the 3-2 shootout, Jeremy Schulz and Jackson scored for Antioch. Any soccer player will say the most frustrating way to lose a game is by shootout.

"Highland Park played a good game," Wilson said. "Hopefully, the juniors will remember as seniors next year never to let up."

Looking to next year, Wilson said Antioch soccer fans could expect another championship-caliber team. Wilson has good reason to believe next year's squad will be just as deep and competitive because the sophomore team finished the year 18-1-2.

"There's some quality players coming up who know how to win, and we've got some people coming back to play for us next year who played a lot this year."

Those returning next year include fullbacks Scott Landgren, Tad Harper and Bill Johnson as well as experienced halfbacks Cal Cruickshank, Tim Nelson, James Patterson and Brian Weeks.

So there's a lot to look forward to next year. As for the Highland Park game, Wilson said, "That happens to the best of us."

Rams' Prior caps career with league's MVP honor

Grayslake High boys soccer Coach Paul Missavage had several kudos to hand out during his team's post-season awards ceremony, including the Northwest Suburban Conference's highest honor.

Midfielder Steve Prior made the all-conference team for the third straight year and this season garnered the league's Most Valuable Player award.

Prior scored 3 goals and had 6 assists in conference games. The Rams went unbeaten to claim their first conference title.

Also named were five other Rams - senior midfielder Ron Graves, junior forward Peter Szentendrei, freshman forward Bryan Phillip and junior fullbacks Pat Eldridge and Steve Rezmer.

Five Round Lake players were honored. They include: junior fullback Tamas Ban and seniors forward Julio Duran, center midfielder Jose Delgado, midfielder Andy Donaldson and sweeper Andy Vergara.

Wauconda's selections were: midfielder Mike Schmitz and goalkeeper David Meyers. Both are seniors.

Johnsburg had three players named and Marian Central two.

Antioch P.E. includes golf

The physical education department of Antioch High School held an intramural golf tournament, which awarded trophies to the first three places for boys and girls.

Male award winners included: Dan Carlson, first place, 48; Chad Anderson, second place, 53; and Jim Schmehl, third place, 54.

Female award winner included Christine Loui, who earned first place with an 81. Names of other female award winners were not available.

Honorable mention kudos went to: Michael Pau, Dan Buehler and Chris Wirsing of Grayslake; Robert Duran and Macario Quevada of Round Lake and Dom Kreckman and Josh Niggemann of Wauconda.

Coach Missavage commented on each of the school's champion Rams, all-conference selections.

"Prior has a tremendous work ethic. He never stops fighting. He has excellent field vision to go along with superb trapping and passing skills. He is small, but he plays hard, tackles hard, and out hustles opponents. He is often marked by two players. If you give him the least amount of time and space anywhere near the goal, he will finish with either foot or with his head.

On Szentendrei, who scored 5 goals and had 4 assists as a forward and will be back for his senior year next year. "Watching Pete play soccer is always enjoyable. Despite his position as a forward, he is regularly seen creating and using space throughout the field, always developing opportunities for his teammates. He has exceptional ball handling skills, can always find an open player on the field and has a tremendous shot. Left unattached in front of the net, Pete has an extremely dangerous header which has proven effective a number of times.

On Buehler, winner of two varsity letters: "Dan really came around toward the middle and end of the season. A lower back injury showed him down early in the season. He is versatile. Dan was playing wing fullback when he scored vs. Warren and also had the game winner in the 3-2 win over Warren in the state tournament match.

Lindenhurst Dragons win division title

The Lindenhurst Dragons (U-9) Travel Team downed third-place Mount Prospect Green and White and first-place Naperville White to win the division title with a record of eight wins and two ties.

Against Mount Prospect, the Dragons soared into the lead with a goal by Jon Douglas. With the wind to their backs the defense, led by Zac Highland, Grant Robinson and Lucas Barrett, kept the ball firmly in play.

The second quarter saw another goal made by Ryan Overby with the help of Kyle Peacy, Kevin Outinen and Jim Ceplawskes. Early in the third quarter, Green and White came back and scored their only goal of the game.

The final half of the game saw Mount Prospect pour everything they had into the game, yet they were unable to get past another fine performance by goalie Richard Brown. The final tally was 2-1 in favor of the Dragons.

The Dragons then traveled to Naperville to face the White on their own turf.

In the first quarter of play, Danny O'Neill filled in for goalie Richard Brown and managed to fend off a non-stop attack by the White. Not until the second quarter of play did the Dragons settle into play and drive the ball deep into Naperville's territory.

With a lot of spunk and determination, Nick Lavine and Josh Enck formed a solid line of defense. The only goal of the game was made by Ryan Overby on a direct kick from 15 yards out of the goal box. With the help of Naperville's defense, who successfully screened their goalie on the kick, Overby deftly chipped the ball over their heads and scored.

In the third quarter, Matt Gray and Rich Wysocki were able to set up a strong defense, which gave some breathing room for the team. In one heart-stopping moment, Lucas Barrett made a crucial save at the Dragon goal line when goalie Richard Brown was taken down by the Naperville offense.

Predators

The Lindenhurst Predators (U-10) lost a tough battle to the Fox Valley Kickers. The final score was 2-1.

The Kickers led off the scoring, however the Predators' Ryan Myers was quick to tie the score on a direct kick from midfield. The final Kickers score occurred in the third quarter.

The Predators played well from the start with Mike Persman and Kevin Schmidt sharing the goalie responsibilities. The Forward line of Colin Revell, Ervin Nevitt and Ryan Miller continually pressed the Kickers defense and was supported well by midfield players Eric Masters, Eric Livasy, Bobby Lyon, Ted Zalewski, Ry-Guy Schuster and Ryan Cullen.

The defensive line of Kevin Mark, Ryan Myers and Brad Hoogerhyde routinely broke up the offensive moves of the Kickers.

The Predators' final game of the fall season will be at home this Sunday against the Wheaton Royal Midwest.

Royal Eagles

The Lindenhurst (U-11) boys' travel soccer team soared higher over the Inverness Red Devils Sunday with a 5-1 win.

The game had just begun when a booming kick from defenseman Eric Carlberg cleared the midfielders to forward Brian Walsh and he took it in for the score. Within seven minutes, Brian Walsh assisted a Tommy Woodruff score with a great pass.

When the second half started, Adam Placko ripped a shot that rebounded off the goalie and Woodruff was there to clean up the leftovers.

Later, Walsh scored again unassisted and then Alex Hofeldt scored assisted by Ramesh Kumar, the last scoring attempt came from Ryan Jordan when he got turned away by an unbelievable save.

Adam Jordan had another outstanding game in goal with 13 saves. Other standouts included Kaleb Barrett, Matthew Boller, David Calvert and Christian Chebny.

Turbos

The Turbos (U-12) met the Wildcats in Mount Prospect. The Turbos scored early in the first half on a goal by Andrew Murphy off a pass from Michael Wheeler with an assist from Adam Schuster.

Jason Adams had a number of shots on goal, including a rebound off the goalie's hands that he headed in the net which was ruled no goal by the referee.

Matt Peterson showed good hustle all game and also had a hard shot on goal. Don Pearson held his own in the goalkeeper's box with several good saves.

The Wildcats managed to score midway through the second half. In the last seconds of the game the Wildcats set up for a shot.

Adam Richter, the last defender, charged the offense and took a hard shot to the body, blocking the shot, ending the game in a 1-1 tie.

Enigma

The Enigma (U-19) girls' travel team traveled to Buffalo Grove and came away with a hard-fought 2-1 victory over the Blue Wave.

Both teams scored on a penalty kick with Katy Harney converting hers for the Enigma. The other goal was scored by Jenny Peterson on a shot from 20 yards out.

Both the midfield and defense played an excellent game, shutting down the Blue Wave attack most of the day. The Enigma remains undefeated at 4-0-4.

Blitz

The Blitz (U-16) girls' travel team fought their way to their eighth straight victory by beating Palatine Arsenal 1-0 at Polley Field. The win enabled the Blitz to take a commanding first place lead in the IWSL U-16B division.

Neither team allowed the other to take any sustained control of the game. The Blitz defense recorded its sixth shutout in eight games.

Goalkeeper Melissa Helbig denied Palatine attackers on several possible scoring chances while defenders Tami Wright, Stacey Alberts, Nicki Kral, Elly Elfering and Katie Hoskins frustrated the Arsenal offense. The Blitz defense has only allowed three goals in eight games.

The winning Blitz goal was scored by Carrie Gofron, who fired a strike from 20-25 yards out. The shot flew over the goalie's head and found all net. Allison Earl placed a lead pass to Gofron to set up the goal.

Other standout players on the day were Erin Sparkman and Susan Woodruff. The Blitz (8-0), who have just two games remaining, travel down to Winnetka to play Trevian White this Sunday.

Power

The Power (U-14) girls' travel team was only able to come up with a 0-0 tie against the NSA Rangers despite outplaying their opponent. The offense kept the Power on the attack throughout most of the day as indicated by their 24-10 shots-on-goal advantage.

Whenever NSA was able to mount an attack, the defensive play of Kristen Gamlin, Esther Scheurer, Jourdan Phillips and Jenny Porter were able to shut it down. The Power record is now 3-2-3, with two games left to play in the fall season.

Stars

The Stars (U-14) girls' travel team played two games to disappointing results.

Game one at Algonquin saw the Stars fall short to the Alishta Blaze 3-1. Playing without four of their starters and having but one sub, the Stars trailed 1-0 at the half.

Five minutes into the second half, the Stars tied the game on a score by Sarah Rimkus with an assist from Samie Korbai. The Blaze managed to find net twice in the last 12 minutes to put the game away. Megs Kotlarz, Angela Tournis, Amie Smit, Megan Rinkenberger, Christy Reese and Natalie Richter had strong performances.

Game two had the Wheaton Wings Gold taking an early lead that proved to be enough as the Stars fell 5-1.

After falling behind 3-0, the Stars' Mandy Fasano headed in a second half goal set up by Christy Reese and Samie Korbai. The Wings held firm and did not allow the Stars any further scoring. Both Lindenhurst U-14 teams (Power and Stars) square off against one another at Polley Field Sunday.

Rockets

The Rockets (U-10) girls' travel team ended their first season as a team last Saturday with a 0-0 tie against Park Ridge. The Rockets controlled the play but were unable to capitalize on the many scoring opportunities.

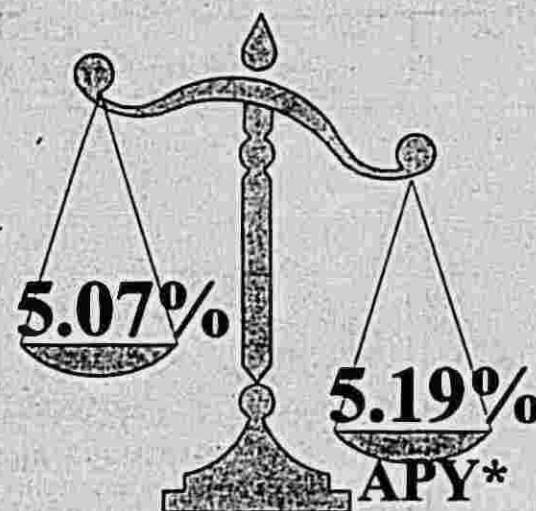

Strong offensive pressure and good defensive play by Lindenhurst kept the ball in play on the Park Ridge half of the field most of the game. Park Ridge could not muster even one shot on goal.

The Rockets finished their first season with a record of 4-1-5.

He has seen the total collections grow from $34 million to the current year's $716 million. He has reduced his staff and is particularly proud of the turn-around time record of his office, distributing real estate tax monies to taxing bodies faster than most other counties. Demb is taking incumbent Anderson to task on several fronts including visibility and accountability.

"It has been the most invisible office in Lake County," she explains. Through her work at the Lake County Society for Human Development she has seen a lack of accountability as well as a duplication of services at the County level.

Demb has a number of plans if elected.

"First, let's make sure that the money grows and we get the most we can with taxpayer's funds. This is not my savings account or yours," she said. "Also, we need to let people know where the money is." She vows to hold town meetings and appoint an ad hoc committee that will "be a link between the Treasurers office and the community."

While Demb was raising her children she taught school in Chicago, returned to get her master's degree in Administrative Sciences, and is a member of a number of community and charitable organizations. She is a member of the Waukegan Rotary, the Waukegan Downtown Association, Women in Development, the Waukegan Chamber of Commerce, Project Pride, Lake County Altrusa, and the Highland Park Disabilities Awareness Committee.

Jablonski challenges Grinnell for Sheriff

Jablonski

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

For the past few weeks before elections, the Democratic candidate for County Sheriff has been greeting commuters from the Northwestern line to Fox Lake.

Richard Jablonski believes being accessible to the voters is important. The candidate is a former Chicago cop, and Lindenhurst and Round Lake Beach police chief.

Clinton O. Grinnell, the six-year sheriff of Lake County, is laying past accomplishments out before the big election.

Grinnell began as the undersheriff in 1982 for Mickey Babcox and took over when Babcox suddenly passed away.

The former Libertyville police officer and chief said he is proud his entire law enforcement career has been in the county.

Some of his past accomplishments include the formation of various organizations in the sheriffs department which include other municipalities. Grinnell said he feels some of his career highlights are the Major Crimes Task Force, the Gang Unit Task Force, and the Auto Task Force. "What we've done is gather all specialties (from different villages) and brought them into one unit," said the sheriff.

Jablonski: Better service

Jablonski, who is running in a county known for its strong Republicanism, is adamant about how he wants to see the sheriff's department operated.

"I plan on running the sheriffs department as a professional law enforcement agency instead of a political playground," said Jablonski. "I want it to be a place where people will be hired, promoted due to their qualifications. I'm not concerned with what political party (they belong to)."

"What I want is professionalism," stated the candidate. He went on to explain how through his leadership he helped solve a large number of crimes in both the Lindenhurst and Round Lake Beach communities. Grinnell on the other hand, said Jablonski, has a low record of crime solving.

Jablonski described how he believes incumbent Sheriff Clint Grinnell has handled his position. "I feel he's insulted the voters throughout the campaign."

While Jablonski was out speaking to a number of senior citizen groups, African Americans, Jewish organizations, Veterans groups and the League of Women Voters among others, he said Grinnell refused to discuss his views at the forums.

"He showed a disrespect to the voters and these different groups by not telling what he thinks," said Jablonski. "Because of this, he's turned voters off by playing 'hide and seek'."

"The main difference between my opponent and myself is, I have a genuine concern for people," said Jablonski. Just one issue is the radio problems with the sheriffs department which are putting officers' lives in danger, and the overcrowded jail which "has reached a crisis stage."

Jablonski calls the way the current county department is run "inefficient"—statistics he's says are confirmed from the Perinn's Management Report and FBI.

Grinnell

Grinnell: Expand programs

"The voters have a clear choice between the two candidates," Grinnell said simply of he and Richard Jablonski.

Some of the differences between him and his opponent are that Jablonski lives in a rental unit, claims Grinnell, while the sheriff has been a county resident all his life.

"I think my police career has been a long and stable one, without any blemishes or scandals," said Grinnell who talked about his opponent losing jobs in both Round Lake Beach and Lindenhurst.

Goals Grinnell has for the future include "expanding on what we have started." Grinnell would like to see the expansion of the popular senior citizen program "Are You Okay?" The project which was put into effect this year makes checking on the well being of seniors a priority.

Salvi, Aschbacher race shows differing perspectives

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

Democrat Jayna Aschbacher, Al Salvi's opponent in the Illinois 52nd congressional district, believes there is not enough women in the State Senate or the House. That is one of the facts which gave the 25-year-old Round Lake Beach woman the impetus to seek a seat in the legislature Nov. 8. She also believes Lake County needs more balance for the two-party system.

"I think it is offensive for a man or a woman to say 'vote for me' based on gender," Salvi said.

Aschbacher's platform has five basic points. They are: a stronger stand on gun control, doing anything to prevent riverboat gambling from coming to Lake County, reworking the school aid formula, preserving as much open space as possible in the district and doing the proper amount of research before voting on an issue.

"I don't have a law practice to keep me busy between legislative sessions. I intend to take more of a grass roots approach," Aschbacher said.

"We've worked hard to get the word out that we are here to help," Salvi said of his office. "Our constituent services are second to none in the state. We hit the ground running."

Salvi said he even hired another person at his own expense to back up his pledge to his constituents. In fact constituent services is one of the three key items he is focusing on his campaign. The other two are keeping taxes down, and a continuation of his work for school aid reform.

On riverboat gambling, Salvi says he is also inherently against it for his district, but that he would be open to letting the people of the district decide. His surveys tell him that the people are overwhelmingly against it, with the exception of the residents of Fox Lake.

Salvi also had a statement for dangers of stricter gun control.

"I am not for eliminating the second amendment," he said.

Both candidates do agree in principal on reworking the school aid formula and preserving the open space in Lake County.

SPENCER SCHEIN

Staff Reporter

State Sen. Will-iam E. Peterson has been making the rounds during his reelection campaign.

A long-time resident of State Senate District 26, Peterson (R-Long Grove) says he has a strong knowledge of the problems and concerns in the area.

"My constituent services are among the best of any legislature in Illinois," he said.

He candidly said his legislative assistant Jan Zibus is as well known in the district as he is, as she is continuously working on solving constituent dilemmas and writing letters on their behalf.

Just two weeks ago, Peterson could be found speaking before the Buffalo Grove Chamber of Commerce on the heels of receiving a 100 percent rating of approval from the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce for his support of legislation to improve the state's business climate.

The endorsement could not have come at a better time, he said.

Peterson was also holding court at a Sunday brunch at Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort sponsored by his campaign committee which was attended by roughly 450 people, enough he said to cover his campaign expenses.

Still standing firm on his platform, Peterson said he knows the state will be able to pay its bills through increased revenues and an improved economy, which is why he opposes the income tax hike proposed by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Dawn Clark Netch.

Peterson campaigning diligently for reelection

"I think supporting business legislation is very important for people in Lake County," he said.

Although Lake County is considered by many to be among the richest counties in the country, Peterson said they still have to bring more business to the area for people who are trying to maintain middle class lifestyles.

"I will continue to be a strong advocate for business and that in turn will help create more jobs for people in Lake County," she said.

He also continues to be opposed to the extension of Route 53. Two villages within his district, Long Grove and Hawthorn Woods, are also against the proposed tollway and have dropped out of the Corridor Planning Council as a result.

Mailings, signs and commercials on three cable networks have already been appearing regularly, and the countless number of personal appearances and talks will continue throughout the end of the election, he said.

From being a board member of the United Way of Lake County, a community leader for Omni Youth Services and being named legislator of the year by the Countryside Association for the Handicap, Peterson said he has represented his district.

His continual endorsements from newspapers that represent the area also act to reconfirm the job he has done, he said.

"I think that is a testament of the evaluation you get every time you run for election," he said.

"I feel I have worked diligently for my constituents, and I ask them to vote for me on Nov. 8."

Scotillo continues trying to get her message out

SPENCER SCHEIN

Staff Reporter

Nancy Scotillo has been working hard to meet people in State Senate District 26 as the Nov. 8 election date nears.

As the Democratic candidate from Hoffman Estates, Scotillo has kept on the campaign trail these past few months, and has often met up with State Sen. William E. Peterson (R-Long Grove), the man she hopes to unseat.

"I am interested in meeting people and getting my message across," she said.

She said too much "gridlock" has stymied needed legislation from getting through in Springfield, and is something she said she would work to dissipate.

"I think we need to have a change (in Springfield), bring new faces, so something gets done," she said.

She believes she holds the same concerns constituents have, such as funding education, trying to run a business while raising a family, traffic congestion and taxes. She would like to give people a voice down state.

"I'm not a politician," Scotillo said. "I am one of the voters."

"I feel I am not the typical Democrat you would see in the city, Springfield or Washington," she said. "I am more the Democrat you would see on the streets of our community."

She also disagrees with Peterson's plan to let the economy solve itself with increased revenues being responsible for paying the states' bills, as opposed to increasing taxes, which Dawn Clark Netch has proposed.

"I am not opposed to paying more taxes if I can see where the money is going," Scotillo said.

She said it was incredible that hospitals and doctors had to wait between 11 to 15 months before they can receive reimbursement checks from Medicaid.

"I don't think waiting for the economy to improve is the right answer," she said.

Scotillo has bumped into Peterson on many occasions, including speaking before Chamber groups, on WKRS radio, at the Barrington League of Women's Voters and on a Buffalo Grove cable access television program hosted by Buffalo Grove President Sidney H. Mathias.

Scotillo

She has been a practicing attorney for 14 years, and was a Cook County assistant states attorney for 14 years.

Scotillo held a successful fund raiser in August, and is endorsed by the Illinois AFL-CIO, Illinois NOW and Illinois Pro Choice Personal PAC.

Lakeland Newspapers garners five NINA awards

Lakeland Newspapers received five awards in the Northern Illinois Newspapers Association's awards competition. The awards were present Friday at Northern Illinois University.

The Round Lake News earned first place honors for make up and design in group one, weeklies with a circulation under 5,000. Claudia M. Lenart is Regional Editor of the paper.

The community guide "A day in the life of Antioch... a postcard in time" also received a first place award in the category of advertising special section. Editorial copy was written by Mary Foley. Joanne Horton is the advertising representative for the area.

A series of advertisements promoting Lakeland Newspapers' format change by graphic artist Jennifer Banks received a first place for best single advertisement.

Staff reporter Kevin Hanrahan received a third place for his feature story on a veteran of D-Day.

Lakeland Newspapers was also honored with a second place for community service for its monthly special section, "Good Beginnings Never End." The section is produced in cooperation with the Child Care Coalition of Lake County.

Both are relying on their backgrounds as sturdy qualifications for the county clerk job.

"I know the job. I like the job, and I've been trained for the job," Ryg said. "My experiences have been exactly related to the duties of the Lake County Clerk."

Helander, on the other hand, started the Lake County Transportation Management Association with $180 and transformed it into an association that offered workshops and symposiums to more than 34,000 people in the business community.

AT A GLANCE

Doctor arrested for drugs

ANTIOCH—Dr. John B. Bellucci, of Antioch, was charged with 27 separate counts of unlawful delivery of a controlled substance and arrested Oct. 28. The charges stem from investigations by the Illinois Department of Professional Regulation, investigators from the Lake County State's Attorney's office; the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration; the Evanston, Buffalo Grove, and Waukegan police departments; along with the Lake County Sheriff's Department.

Task force praised for efforts

MUNDELEIN—The Mundelein Task Force received the Community Partnership Award from the Lake County Fighting Back Project. The group, led by Police Chief Ray Rose, began their work in the Whitehall Manor apartment complex. Through the efforts of the Task Force, the area has become much safer, and residents have been able to receive help with problems from the many resources now available to them.

Response times to decrease

LAKE ZURICH—Emergency vehicle response times will decrease with the installation of a pre-emption traffic system that will allow officials to turn red lights into green. The village board is likely to authorize the purchase of receiving units for traffic signals at eight intersections on Routes 22 and 12, as well as special strobe lights that will be mounted to the tops of police cars, fire engines and ambulances, and signal the lights to change. The village needs to receive approval from the Illinois Department of Transportation before they can install the equipment, as the intersections are all on state routes.

Talk of speed limits for Chain

CHAIN O' LAKES—The Fox Waterway Advisory Committee has rescheduled a meeting regarding cigarette-type boats and speed boats on the Chain O' Lakes. The issue is a big one with residents and marina owners alike up and down the Chain and Fox River. The Advisory meeting held last week included discussion by the board and about ten residents who noted their concerns. According to officials, no solution to the problem has been made yet, but one suggestion includes posting a speed limit for the fast vessels. An Advisory meeting is continued for Nov. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the Fox Lake Community Center.

Pollution charge

ANTIOCH—Circuit Systems, Inc. of Antioch has been charged with water pollution, operation of a hazardous waste storage facility without a permit, along with other charges in a 15-count lawsuit, which was filed in Lake County Circuit Court. The case is being handled jointly by the Office of the Attorney General and the State's Attorney's Office in Lake County.

Jensen released

LAKE COUNTY—States Attorney Michael J. Waller is reviewing how they can make Rena Jensen serve more of her sentence in prison. The former Island Lake police officer was convicted of obstructing justice and reckless conduct in the shooting of her former boyfriend last summer. She served a total of three months, two in the Illinois Department of Corrections, of an 18-month sentence, before being released in September. Waller does not agree with the DOC automatically granting her nine-months off for good behavior, nor the almost six-months she was granted off due to state statute.

Speed limit raises controversy

GRAYSLAKE—Motorists traveling through Grayslake will be witness to a rare item in traffic legislation—a speed limit will actually be raised. Residents neighboring Atkinson Rd. are not pleased with the village's decision to raise the Atkinson Rd. speed limit from 30 miles per hour to as high as 40 miles per hour on certain segments. Atkinson Rd., which links the two-mile stretch between Washington St. and Rte 120, is defined by IDOT as an arterial route. Protesting residents believe the route is a residential street, and therefore the speed limit should be lowered.

Residents give park input

GURNEE—A handful of Gurnee residents were interested enough in the future of a park to attend a public meeting about it. Gurnee Park District hosted the meeting regarding Shaw (Belle Plaine) Park. Those making presentations included Doug Gotham of Leisure Concepts and Design, the park planner; Jeff Reinhard, superintendent of parks for the Gurnee Park District and Betty Russell, park director. The park is named for John Shaw Sr., park board member, who was also on hand.

Strike still going

ROUND LAKE—The staff strike continues at the Round Lake Unit Schools. Education Association of Round Lake officials claim the school board is slowing negotiations. The school board says the union still has too many issues on the table to negotiate successfully. The last mediation session on Sunday netted no new ground. Another session was scheduled Wednesday night at the County Building in Waukegan.

VOTE REPUBLICAN

New Democrat Walberg challenges Crane for 8th Dist.

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Bob Walberg, a former stock market analyst, hopes to bring his economic background to Congress as a new Democrat for the 8th District.

Walberg squares off against Republican incumbent Phil Crane, who has kept conservatism alive in a Democrat-controlled Congress.

The twenty-something generation, Walberg said, believes this is the first time in history when younger people do not feel they will be able to surpass or even match their parents' successes. Using a Yogi Berraism, Walberg says, "The future ain't what it used to be."

He says he hopes to promote a healthy economy by reducing the capital gains tax, providing permanent tax credits for research and development as well as eliminating double taxation on dividend income.

Walberg calls for capping federal spending and cutting defense and entitlement programs. He also urges an increase in the retirement age from 65 to 68.

On the issue of crime, Walberg offers a clear distinction. He supported the recent crime bill, its ban on assault weapons and its funding for new police officers, while Crane voted against the bill.

Walberg points to the recent shooting incident at the White House when a lone gunman opened fire on the presidential mansion.

"Phil Crane-style voting has kept people like Francisco Duran well armed. If the majority of Congress voted as recklessly as Crane has, assault weapons like the SKS rifle would be readily available to violent criminals," Walberg said.

Walberg also supports increased funding in education in Head Start and vocational training programs. "Personally, I see investing in our education as an investment in our future," Walberg said.

He also supports the creation of a National Police Corps, which would allow college-bound students to serve two to three years in a local police department in return for college funds. The program would be modeled after the ROTC program.

Walberg supports two six-year term limits for Senators and three four-year term limits for Representatives. He pledges not to serve more than 12 years in office if elected. He also calls for various Congressional reforms such as banning lobbyists paying for free trips and/or expensive gifts.

Crane: Put Republicans in charge of Congress

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

Incumbent Republican Congressman Phil Crane believes the answer to the nation's deficit is Republican control of the House of Representatives.

Crane is facing Bob Walberg, an Arlington Heights native, in a bid to retain his Eighth District seat in Congress.

Crane is heralding the Republican Contract proposed by Newt Gingrich and said if Republicans gain control of Congress for the first time in 40 years, the American people will see an immediate change in the way business is conducted on Capital Hill.

"On the first day that Republicans become a majority in Congress, we will cut committees, subcommittees and staff by one-third, ban ghost voting, establish term limits, pass a balanced budget amendment and a line-item veto," Crane said.

Crane's campaign literature highlights his voting record including the fact that he has never voted for a tax increase. Crane has long been a proponent of a balanced budget amendment and line item veto. He believes Republican control of Congress will result in the accomplishment of these initiatives.

Both candidates agree that the national budget must be balanced but disagree on the process to accomplish it.

"With a balanced budget amendment we could have a balanced budget in seven years," said Crane. "We could do this without a tax increase. Benefit programs can be cut but we must be careful when it comes to cutting entitlements. All spending originates in Congress. The House needs an overhaul."

Crane is an advocate of proposing tax credits and other benefits for individuals under the age of 40 to encourage individual IRA savings as a way of paying for the future. "Let's give young people the option of planning for their own retirement. They'll pay less and have more," he said.

"Democrats have locked up the balanced budget amendment and the line item veto," Crane said. "If voters give us (Republicans) anything close to 200 representatives in Congress we can get the job done."

According to campaign literature, Crane has attended more than 275 events in the district this past year while maintaining a 97 percent voting record in the House and a 100 percent voting record in committee. Crane has attended several community events in recent weeks including the Grant Township Picnic.

A good, old-fashioned contest has developed in the race for 60th District State Representative.

Democrat incumbent Lauren Beth Gash is trying to retain her seat for a second term, while Republican challenger Edna Schade wants to return the seat to the GOP.

A Democrat by party affiliation, Gash has built a reputation of voting independence and working with Republican and Democratic legislators alike.

On education, both candidates share similar views and proposals. Both would like to see more local control of school curriculum and school budgets, and both are proponents of charter schools.

Gash was Governor Edgar's chief sponsor on learning zone legislation, which passed a task force to investigate, in part, the break up of the massive Chicago School System into nine separate districts. Learning zones, she said, would also free "schools from the Springfield bureaucracy."

Schade shares similar views but in addition would like to limit the number of unfunded state mandates on school boards. "I would like to let school districts take control of what they have to fund," Schade said.

She also supports Governor Edgar's plan to dedicate 40 percent of all new revenue growth over the next five years to education. Schade said $1 billion would be earmarked for education specifically, while another $1 billion would go toward property tax relief. This would be done, she noted, without a tax increase.

On small business reform, Gash sponsored legislation to reduce the amount of bureaucratic paperwork small businesses are required to complete. Gash also supports tax incentives for businesses that offer vocational training.

"The idea is that we're suppose to be helping business, not harming them," Gash said.

Schade said she would tackle civil liability and worker's compensation reform. The amount of potential litigation against an employer makes for a "horrendous" climate to do business in Illinois, she said.

In the area of worker's compensation, she would allow employers to seek a second medical opinion on an injured employee. She would also allow injuries resulting from employee alcohol or drug abuse to be considered during the litigation process.

"The employer is paying big time for (worker) irresponsibility," Schade said.

Schade supports business tax credits for hiring new employees and tax incentives for capital expansion. She would also allow small businesses to offer "no frills" (illness and injury) health insurance to their employees.

As a legislator, Gash has also been active in child welfare reform, where she supports a single case-worker system, "so kids don't deal with many different bureaucrats and fall through the gaps." The move, she added, would consolidate government and prevent duplicate services.

On other issues, Gash was instrumental in revealing some of the corruption within the Illinois Toll Highway Authority. Robert Hickman, who headed the ITHA, eventually resigned because of the revelations. Gash is fighting for legislation calling for a toll payer's bill of rights, which would make the toll authority more accountable to the state.

Gash was also one of a handful of legislators to vote against the current state budget, which she said was passed to satisfy constituents during the election. Much of the money allocated for programs will not be available in January or February, she said. "There's no question it's going to fall apart," Gash said.

In addition, Gash voted against raising the income tax, against early releases for prisoners, and voted in favor of prison privatization and tax caps.

In the area of juvenile crime, Schade wants to see a greater emphasis in prevention, such as drug prevention programs and boot camps for non-violent juvenile offenders.

"You have to start younger and it has to be repetitious, so they'll be ready for their secondary education years," Schade said of juvenile crime and drug prevention programs. "The other part of prevention is that these kids stay in school."

Boot camps are more cost-effective than juvenile incarceration, Schade said, and she noted that school reforms need to offer juveniles a reason to stay in school.

A ComEd plea—don't tack election posters on utility poles

With the upcoming Nov. 8 general election campaign in full swing, ComEd makes the following appeal to all candidates and their supporters, regardless of party: Please don't tack posters or notices on utility poles.

Anything tacked on utility poles can cause trouble for our line crews. Too often, utility workers suffer cuts and gashes from encounters with nails and tacks used to affix posters.

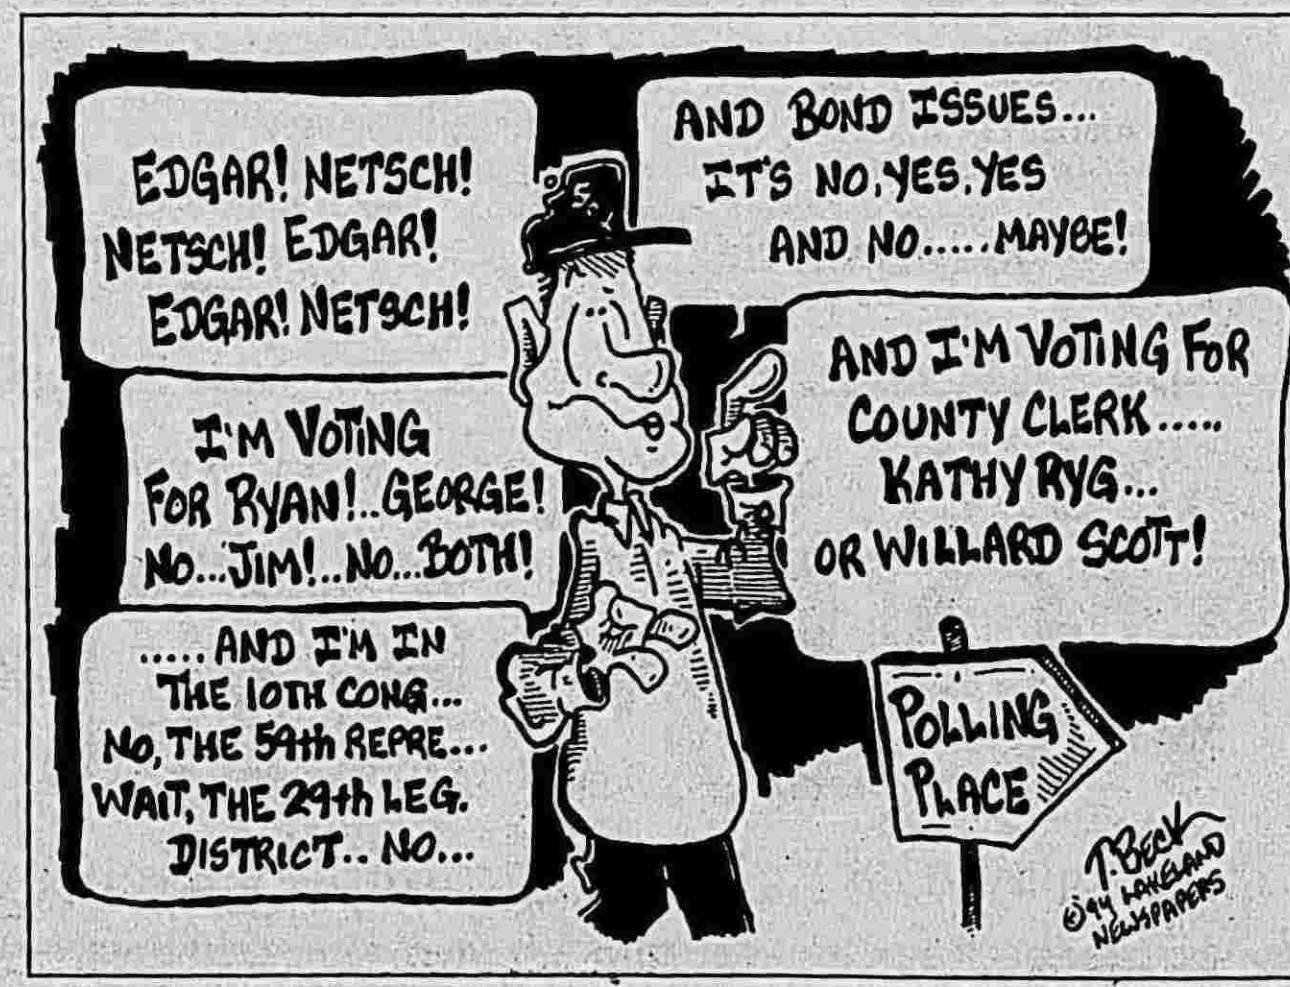

Barbara Richardson, Lake County coroner, described the accident as a tragedy. "From what all I could find out, he was a very popular young man," she said. She said cause of death was massive head trauma.

Harry said the accident occurred after Plutorak and his friends had completed working at "Fright Fest" at Six Flags Great America. "They were going to go to a haunted house outside of Kenosha," he said.

Carmel High students were assisted in coping with the death as soon as they arrived at school Oct. 30.

"We had a team set up at 7 a.m. Monday. They met with the faculty at 7:30 a.m. and the students at 8:15 a.m.," Harry said.

Services were held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at St. Patrick Catholic Church in Wadsworth.

When incumbents seek re-election, one question many voters ask is, "What have you done for me lately?"

As Cong. John Edward Porter seeks to retain his seat in Congress, one of the things he can point to is his track record of delivering the goods to the citizens of the 10th Congressional District.

In his last term, Porter brought in $2.5 million in federal money to North Chicago School District 187, appropriated $8 million as seed money for the Wisconsin Central commuter line, garnered $1.27 million for flood relief along the Des Plaines River as well as additional money for Waukegan Harbor, assisted in saving Great Lakes Naval Training Center from closing, drafted legislation to let the communities decide the homeless issue at Fort Sheridan, and $750,000 was granted for 10 new police officers in Waukegan through the Crime Bill.

"This Congress has been a disaster, but I have gotten a lot accomplished," Porter said.

Porter's amendment to the Education Reauthorization Bill reimburses schools for the costs of educating students who live on military bases. Specifically, $2.5 million in impact aid is earmarked for North Chicago School District 187. Many students attending District 187 come from Great Lakes Naval Center, but the center does not contribute to local property taxes.

"The impact aid is not pork," Porter said. "That money the federal government owes."

In addition to providing the resources to expand school programs, Porter said the impact aid alleviates the worry of other school districts having to take military students into their schools.

By providing the seed money for the Metra service along the Wisconsin Central Railroad, a new commuter line will run from Antioch and eventually connect with O'Hare International Airport and Chicago's Union Station. Additional stops will be in Libertyville, Round Lake Beach, Grayslake, Mundelein, Vernon Hills as well as stops in Cook County.

With the completion of the flood relief along the North Branch of the Chicago River, Porter has now shifted his focus for flood control along the Des Plaines River, where flooding has affected homeowners living in Liberty Estates.

Among the federal government's attempt to close military bases across the country, Porter not only saved Great Lakes but also will be working to expand the training facility, which is a major contributor to the economies of shoreline communities.

"We saved Great Lakes and have made it the sole remaining Navy training facility," Porter said.

At Fort Sheridan, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services originally allowed three homeless organizations access to the closed buildings there.

New legislation sponsored by Porter allows local authorities, such as the Fort Sheridan Planning Committee, to work with homeless agencies to find housing and funding to acquire similar properties elsewhere.

By supporting the Crime Bill, $750,000 was made available to the Waukegan Police Department to hire 10 new officers. Porter will also be working to gain funding for new officers at the Mundelein and North Chicago police departments when the next round of grants are made available.

"We send an awful lot of funding to Washington," Porter noted. "We have a few needs, too."

Reform-minded Krupp challenges Porter for 10th Dist.

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Andrew Krupp thinks it's time for a change in the 10th Congressional District.

The 26-year-old Democrat from Arlington Heights is challenging Republican Congressman John Edward Porter.

From crime reform to election reform, Krupp believes a fresh face with new ideas can bring about change, and, at the same time, bring some additional federal money into the 10th Dist.

With the prison population now peaking at 1 million incarcerated felons, Krupp said sending more people to prison and building more prisons will not solve the crime dilemma.

"We need to do things to keep people active, busy and productive," Krupp said.

He prefers taking away military and foreign aid money and re-investing the money in the form of block grants to communities that would design and implement crime-prevention programs.

"Local people know what's best for the local community," said Krupp, who added that villages, church groups and park districts would know better what to do with crime-prevention money than the federal government. He supported the recent Crime Bill signed by President Bill Clinton.

At the same time, Krupp supports an overhaul in the welfare program, beginning with placing a two-year limit on people receiving welfare benefits. In addition, he said welfare recipients should either perform community service or enter a job training program.

"People have to realize people get nothing for nothing," Krupp said.

On federal spending, Krupp said he would work toward cutting deficit spending and cutting federal programs. He also said he would work toward keeping federal hands from dipping into the Social Security pot.

In the area of health care, Krupp said he does not support any particular plan proposed. He opposes a tax on small businesses and raising individual rates, although he supports some kind of comprehensive plan.

"I want to be careful. We've waited this long. Let's do it right," he said.

Krupp also favors election reform in which a challenger to an incumbent is granted one free mailing, and the number of mailings are limited.

"I want to make sure every challenger has a chance," Krupp noted.

More locally, Krupp said he would promote intergovernmental cooperation between local, county and federal political leaders. He suggested a yearly meeting with local and county officials to find the specific needs of the 10th Dist.

"We don't see much cooperation between different governments. What can we do to make Lake County a better place," he said. Specifically, he would work toward obtaining federal block grants to local communities.

Said Krupp, "It's time to give someone else a chance to see what they can do to improve people's lives."

The race for 62nd District representative pits a grandmother and former trustee against a veteran state legislator.

Phyllis Lucas of Lindenhurst is challenging Robert Churchill to represent Northwest Lake County for the next four years. Issues include Churchill's record and what Churchill considers "mudslinging" by Lucas.

"I've been talking about issues all along, but Churchill hasn't been listening to me, just like he doesn't listen to his constituents," Lucas said.

Lucas claims the major issues are the tollway authority, crime, education funding, Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) reform and term limits.

Lucas favors tollway authority reform. She also advocates truth in sentencing which would require criminals to serve 85 percent of their sentences. She is also an advocate of increasing enrollment in juvenile boot camps.

In Education, Lucas believes the state should take on more responsibility in funding education. She feels the state should fund education at more than a 50 percent rate.

Lucas is a supporter of term limits. She wants legislators to serve for only eight years.

'I've been talking about issues all along, but Churchill hasn't been listening to me, just like he doesn't listen to his constituents.'

— Phyllis Lucas, candidate for 62nd Dist.

Lucas demands an overhaul of DCFS, with tougher standards for case workers.

Churchill is concerned with how Chicago influences are hurting Lake County residents. He said he believes too many Medicaid funds are going to Cook County Hospitals and being drained from Lake County facilities.

Also on his hit list is the state education funding formula. He endorses reform which would allow Lake County schools to collect more of the funding which is sent to Chicago Schools. Churchill He had called for breaking up the Chicago school system into separate districts to enhance efficiency.

Churchill favors charter schools so companies can help finance schools and make them better as well as some form of voucher system to give parents more educational choices.

Churchill, of Lake Villa, was first elected in 1982. Lucas is a former Lindenhurst Trustee.

Hartigan praises Ryg's background, commitment

Democrat County Clerk candidate Kathy Ryg saved her campaign fireworks finale for last, as former Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan showered her with praise at the grandiose, stately Cuneo Museum and Gardens.

Republican challenger is Willard Helander.

Hartigan, who ran as the Democrat candidate for governor in 1990 and now practices law for a private firm in Chicago, stressed that it is not an easy time to be in government, but Ryg comes to the scene as one committed to continuing the tradition of former County Clerk Grace Mary Stern, and current County Clerk Linda Hess.

"It's a tradition of excellence, a tradition of integrity, and a commitment to government," Hartigan told Ryg supporters.

Hartigan said he was impressed by Ryg's background of community affiliations which include Mundelein/Vernon Hills Rotary Club, Vernon Hills Lions Club, and Hawthorn Junior High School Drug and Alcohol Abuse Awareness Committee as well as her professional affiliations such as the Municipal Clerks of Illinois, Municipal Clerks of Lake County and the Illinois Municipal League.

"The more I heard about her background, the more amazed I was," said Hartigan, adding it was a privilege to have "a public person in government for the right reasons."

Humbled by Hartigan's words of support, Ryg said she was going to do her best to live up to his high expectations of her.

Ryg said she would be ready to begin work immediately as county clerk by preparing for the February and April elections as well as by implementing Motor Voter registration. She also added she would be committed to serving the people of Lake County.

"We all need to get better service and stop the political partisanship," Ryg said. "Good citizens do not rely on government. Good government relies on citizens."

Volunteer workdays scheduled

Persons interested in hands-on work to save some of Lake County's natural areas can grab some work gloves and join other Lake County Forest Preserve volunteers for the final Fall Conservation Workdays. New Saturday afternoon hours have been set for workdays at three popular freest preserves.

Working with forest preserve staff, volunteers help restore natural areas by cutting or pulling up invasive non-native plants like buckthorn and garlic mustard, and by cleaning up the preserve.

Three afternoon workdays are available and include: Greenbelt Forest Preserve at Shelter B located off of Green Bay Road near Waukegan and North Chicago, Nov. 5; McDonald Woods Forest Preserve near Lindenhurst, Nov. 12; and Old School Forest Preserve near Libertyville, Nov. 19. Saturday afternoon workdays run from 2 to 4 p.m. Volunteers should dress in long pants and sturdy shoes, and bring work gloves.

"As part of the Volunteer Stewardship Network, Conservation Workdays give volunteers an opportunity to learn how they can help in the preservation of natural areas," said Tom Smith, forest preserve conservation volunteer coordinator.

For further information about the workdays or the Volunteer Stewardship Network, call Tom Smith at 948-7750.

Trustee choices

The University of Illinois is one of five major state universities where trustees are selected by a direct vote of the electorate. Three seats are to be filled in the Nov. 8 election. Lakeland Newspapers is recommending the election of one Democrat and two Republicans.

The Democrat is Ken Boyle, a Chatham attorney who is running for re-election. Boyle has served with distinction and currently is president of the board. The Republicans are Judith R. Reese, a trustee since 1988, and William "Bill" Engelbrecht, a Chicago advertising executive. Reese's experience and Engelbrecht's business background will be put to good use as the board tackles the tough job of filling the presidency being vacated by the distinguished President Stanley Ikenberry who is retiring.

Other candidates are Democrats Ross Harano and Martha O'Malley, and Republican Brian C. Silverman. The qualifications they offer just don't match Boyle, Reese and Engelbrecht.

Yes recommended on two questions

Among non-candidate issues in the general election Tuesday, Nov. 8, will be two Constitutional questions requiring voter approval.

In the section covering rights of the accused, it is proposed that language providing for a "face to face" requirement for the accuser be replaced with a provision for "comfortable" confrontation which provides for more modern, workable trial mechanics. An earlier date is sought in the process when new laws take effect. An approved change will speed up the process without adversely affecting electors.

We see no reason why either change will be harmful. A yes vote is recommended on both proposed amendments to the Illinois Constitution.

Michael Jordan deal celebrity politics

Michael Jordan and his teammates in the development of a south county golf emporium were going for a slam dunk in a deal with the Lake County Forest Preserve. But they were hand-checked by opponents and now the proposal is as cold as three-day-old pizza.

And well they should have been side-tracked. Everything about the deal was wrong except the basic concept of a public-private partnership. Wrong place. Lousy business deal (for the public). Amateur public relations. Back-room negotiations. Arm-twisting.

In short, the golf promoters were attempting to negotiate an agreement with the Forest Preserve where they could take 65 acres of the Buffalo Creek Forest Preserve at Lake-Cook Rd. and Rte 53 to build a nine-hole course, two miniature golf courses, a driving range, pro shop and a sports lounge—all for a paltry $110,000 per year fee.

Dist. President Colin McRae (R-Mundelein) hailed the plan as an enlightened proposal to create welcomed income while at the same time providing family recreation and tax relief. Commissioner Martha Marks (R-Riverwoods) saw the proposition as a bald-faced rip-off of the taxpayers where public land would be used for private profit.

Under the right circumstances and a suitable location, the public-private partnership is admirable, a concept for government whose time has come. Only the income to be generated for the county via Michael Jordan Golf was chump change. The land alone easily is worth close to $500,000 on the open market not to mention operating profits. MJ and Co. didn't reckon with County Board purists and neighbors in Long Grove and Buffalo Grove who harbor the quaint idea that forest preserves are for flora, fauna and nature lovers, not thousands of Jack Nicholas wannabees who are trying to correct a slice.

Michael Jordan and his associates are practical-minded business persons out to make a profit by providing a worthwhile service. Nothing wrong with that. Only they were misled into thinking their way would be cake-walk for their comfy deal. The whole proposition smacks of celebrity politics to leverage a fast buck.

We'd like to see the Jordan combine regroup, find a more appropriate location and try again.

Trustee seeks second term

Publisher

No one of right mind spends time and energy campaigning up and down a big state like Illinois for a job that pays nothing, requires tremendous commitment and dedication, and holds you up to criticism as a racist. Right?

Wrong!

If you're Ken Boyle, you're willing to make the sacrifice and take the criticism. That's because Boyle is a believer. Boyle is dedicated to doing everything in his power to maintain the greatness of the University of Illinois.

A jovial lawyer from downstate Chatham near Springfield, Boyle is seeking his second term on the U of I board of trustees. Boyle came to Lake County in quest of votes as he takes the uncommon route of personal campaigning rather than being a faceless name on the bottom of his party's state ticket.

Boyle prides himself on being a realist. As a Democrat, Boyle broke into a broad grin and exclaimed, "This doesn't look like a banner year for our party. But there are three to be elected—win, place and show. I'd be happy to show."

The country lawyer also offered a realistic response to criticism leveled at the University for espousing bigotry by retaining Chief Illiniwek, seen by a handful of native Americans and some liberals as evidence of racism and insensitivity.

"Chief Illiniwek is not racist. The Chief is not a mascot. He is a symbol of a proud people and a great University. The Chief is going to stay," Boyle asserted. The downstate Democrat said the board majority will not bow to media critics or political correctness by scuttling the chief and a proud tradition.

If voters give him another term, Boyle said he will continue fighting for a revenue producing tuition investment program and press for hiring the best possible candidate in the U.S. to replace retiring President Stanley Ikenberry. "That will be the board's biggest job. Stanley Ikenberry is the most outstanding university president in county," Boyle asserted. About the tuition proposal: U of I tuition payments now are lumped into the state's general fund. Boyle wants to keep tuition at the University in an interest-bearing investment fund.

Go Illini. Go Ken Boyle.

Footnote: The day after Boyle visited Lakeland Newspapers editorial offices, he suffered a heart attack and was forced to curtail campaigning. Here's wishing him a full recovery.

TREE KILLING—Rich Brown, who has built more homes in Lake County than anyone in history, isn't in the business of killing trees on a neighbor's property when a new subdivision starts. But if some tree roots get ripped up and the trees dies, well, hey. That's life. Isn't it?

That's about the situation where Brown's company, Cambridge, is building new homes near a wooded area on a nearby farm. The farmer, Frank Grenus, complained and Greg Boehm, watershed engineer for the Lake County Stormwater management Commission, inspected the premises.

Boehm reported "the trench dug to place the silt fence has been dug so close to his (Grenus') tree line immediately on his side of the property line that most of the trees will probably die." Boehm added in a communication that tree killing is not covered by the watershed development ordinance.

That's life. Isn't it?

LETTERS TO THE Editor

Reason for controversy

Editor:

In your endorsement section for sheriff of Lake County, you stated that "on the whole, though, Jablonski hasn't been convincing enough to recommend turning over the county's law enforcement apparatus to a lawman who has been hounded by controversy." However, you failed to state why I am controversial. Is it controversial to refuse to condone a cover up or refuse to be corrupted?

In Lindenhurst, I refused to cover up an investigation when an allegation was made against a police officer by a 15-year-old girl for sexual misconduct. This officer happened to be a relative of a village official.

In Round Lake Beach, village officials wanted me to promote one of their friends, which would have been contrary to state law. In addition, my efforts to require all police personnel to take a random drug test was stopped, even though this police department did not conduct a single drug investigation in over four years.

I served honorably for 29 years as a member of the Chicago Police Dept. I worked eight of those years in the internal affairs division investigating allegations of police corruption. While serving as chief of police in two communities, my morals, ethics and principles were put to the test. I refused to be corrupted and was fired. And if I had to do it all over again I would have taken the same stand.

As sheriff, I will not condone any cover-ups and will not be corrupted.

Say no to Yorkhouse

Editor:

The Lake County Conservation Alliance opposes the proposed extension of York House Road. One reason that LCCA objects is that the majority of the people in the area do not want this project to proceed. If traffic problems in the area really warrant this multimillion dollar project, wouldn't local residents be clamoring for the extension project to move forward? Instead, they oppose it.

Another reason why this project should be forgotten is that it would cut through the Des Plaines'

Wetlands Demonstration Project. Many threatened and endangered species have made the site of the wetlands project their home. After the first section was completed, the number of individual waterfowl utilizing the area, increased by 4,000 percent.

Instead of spending millions on the York House Road extension, the Lake County Board could improve traffic flow and safety by adding turn lanes at several strategic intersections, and traffic lights at known dangerous intersections. This would be a much wiser way to spend taxpayers money.

PARTY LINES

Two faces showing in Lake Forest GOP

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political opinion and commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

Two sides of Lake Forest's political face are showing this week.

Beattie is the smiley face of Mary Beattie's gracious countenance, with a letter campaign backing Tom Lachner for state representative.

Lachner, a young Lake Bluff businessman, defeated Beattie, Shields Twp. Republican chairman and Dist. 16 County Board representative, in a rather rough and tumble primary contest.

"Tom's seat is very important. We need only nine more Republican seats in the state legislature and the Republicans will have a majority ... Tom Lachner will serve us well," wrote Beattie.

The frown face belongs to Don Grabowski, who was not slated for reelection as a Univ. of Illinois trustee.

Lachner

He'll watch Nov. 8 as his post goes to someone else.

The Lake Forest Republican did a creditable job as trustee, but he made the mistake of not supporting his Lake Forest neighbor, Susan Gravenhorst, a veteran U of I trustee with key downstate GOP ties, for the board presidency last year.

Grabowski's payback was not getting reslated, almost unheard of for the non-paid position.

What their differences are is strictly between them, mutual friends insist. Otherwise, both Gravenhorst and Grabowski are regarded as true blue Republicans.

Take the tour—Despite needling from County Board Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Round Lake), Rep. Bob Buhai (D-Highland Park) hasn't toured the highways and byways to get acquainted with west Lake County geography.

Leafblad says Buhai casts votes on places west of the College of Lake County campus he's never heard of or seen. Cool it, Larry. Party Lines distinctly remembers Buhai being sighted at the opening last year of the branch court at "far out" Rtes. 120 and 45.

Well coached—Supporters of Pat Urlanti, who unsuccessfully sought the Lake County Republican chair last spring, are chuckling when they see former chairman, State Rep. Bob Churchill, staying close to the new chairman, Dr. John Schullen. They say Schullen doesn't order breakfast without first checking with Churchill.

Last laugh—Loyalists in the camp of veteran Republican Congressman Phil

Crane are passing around copies of the Chicago Tribune endorsement of Democrat Robert Walberg to fire up the troops for election day Tuesday. They're scoffing at the Trib's assessment of "voter disenchantment" with Crane in the solidly GOP 8th Dist. of west Lake County and northwest Cook County.

Letters

Unite GOP for change
Editor:

Because of my very public Republican activities, I am often asked about the contest for state representative in the 60th Dist. Although Edna Schade and I have run against each other, I now support her and endorse her candidacy. Republicans have the chance to change Illinois by electing a majority in the State House. Since the Senate is already Republican, that would end the annual deadlock in which the state budget is usually held hostage. This race is crucial to ending that gridlock.

Now is the time for Republicans to unite and join me in endorsing the Schade candidacy. United we can change Illinois. Divided, we can expect merely politics as usual.

Rights being jeopardized
Editor:

I am writing about one of the proposed amendments to the Illinois Constitution we will be voting on Nov. 8. The amendment is the child shield amendment under which, if passed, Illinois citizens would be losing a very important right. Article I, Section 8 of the Illinois Constitution currently states that the accused "shall have the right to meet the witnesses face to face." This means that all people testifying against someone must do it in court on the witness stand.

The proposed amendment would change article I, Section 8 to the accused "shall have the right to be confronted with the witnesses against him or her." Proponents of the amendment say this would allow children to testify by closed-circuit TV instead of on the witness stand in child sexual abuse cases.

Who does not want to help children who are victims of sexual abuse? A better question is do you want to help those children at the expense of your losing a right? The language of the proposed amendment makes no provision for it to apply just in child sexual abuse cases. In fact, advocates of the amendment believe that crime victims who will be "traumatized" by being made to testify face to face should not have to. Using trauma as a criteria for seeing who testifies face to face opens the door for no one to testify that way. By letting one group of people not to testify face to face permits others, if not all groups, to do so.

Supporters of the amendment also state that the change to Article I, Section 8 would just bring the Illinois Constitution in line with the sixth amendment to the U.S. Constitution. They say we would not be losing a right because the amendment would not lessen the sixth amendment. As any of my Harper or CLC students could tell you, it is quite common for state constitutions to give citizens more rights than the U.S. Constitution. Why give up a better, more clearly defined right? People all over the world are fighting to obtain rights, not give them up.

The proposed Child Shield Amendment may be well intentioned, but I will vote against it on Nov. 8 and urge all of my fellow Illinois citizens to do the same. Please don't give up a right that we already enjoy. This is one of the rights of the accused. Who are the accused? Real criminals who get off on technicalities? Sometimes, yes, and sometimes it is you and you have been wrongly accused. Remember, these are the rights of the accused and you are innocent until proven guilty.

Signs tell the difference
Editor:

Everywhere you go these days you see political signs. Most look alike, just a different color, name or design. But there's one county-wide campaign, the county clerk's race, where the signs tell you all you already need to know about the candidates.

Everywhere you go you see Willard Helander signs. Huge billboards on major roads. Middle-size signs on every corner, but none in people's yards. Some are fancy, with a photo. Obviously very expensive.

Kathy Ryg's signs are not everywhere, but they are on real people's property.

There are a lot fewer of them, and they're not huge. They're not fancy, either. Kathy Ryg's signs look homemade. They're hand-stenciled and it looks as if it took someone a long time to make them.

What does this tell us about the two candidates? It says that Helander has lots of money and Ryg doesn't, so Ryg is campaigning the old fashioned way. The GOP candidate's war chest is bulging with money from sources who feel it's important that one party control all the county's elected offices. Somebody really wants the Republican bosses to control our entire county.

Why? Your guess is as good as mine. But doesn't it make you worry a bit about our old fashioned two-party system of good government?

Lies about Yorkhouse Rd.
Editor:

Sometime in the next few weeks your Lake County Board will decide whether to continue plans to extend Yorkhouse Rd. from its current endpoint to Rte. 41. We must not allow this road to be built.

This extension would not only bisect the longest uninterrupted stretch of forest preserve along the Des Plaines River, but also would interfere with the world renowned Wetlands Demonstration Project. This project is widely considered to be man's best effort at restoring wetlands to their natural condition.

We have been lied to repeatedly about the need for this extension. Originally, board chairman Depke said it was needed as an emergency escape route in case of emergency at the Zion nuclear plant. After finding out that people weren't quite stupid enough to believe this story, we were told that the county was simply trying to relieve congestion in the area. At this time, there is no east-west congestion in the area, and none is projected for many years to come. The current line is that this road will also provide additional access to the forest preserve and a scenic view of the Wetlands Demonstration Project. It supposedly will also give us experience to determine if building a road through a wetland will have a detrimental impact. This is about as believable as the emergency escape route excuse we were originally given.

The real story behind this road is about development. Depke has already said he would like to see this road extended to the tollway. The Tollway Authority would not build an interchange for a road going only east from the tollway, so Yorkhouse would have to be extended significantly west of the tollway. The county board currently allows all types of intense use development near tollway interchanges. The extension of Yorkhouse to the tollway would open the entire area from Rte. 41 to Hunt Club, and from Gurnee to the state line to just about any kind of development requested by a developer. Then suddenly Yorkhouse will need four, or even six, lanes to handle the traffic generated by this development. This may be many years from now, but don't be so naive as to think it won't happen this way. The only way to prevent it is to stop the extension of Yorkhouse Rd. now.

Don't withhold facts
Editor:

There are so many negatives out there in the media with regard to "politicians." It's time the media printed some positives about those who represent us. How can we, as voters, make correct decisions about our representatives if in fact we rarely, if ever, hear the other side?

For example, did you know that Congressman Phil Crane has been a teacher (Ph.D.), a farmer, a soldier, historian and author? He has received awards from such groups as B'nai B'rith, National Federation of Independent Businessmen, and with eight kids he was even named as Illinois Statesman's Father of the Year.

Yes, Phil Crane and others, whether they be Democrats or Republicans, do have some great things that we, the public, should know about. People in the press, please print the other side of the story.

Mother-baby counseling group offered

The group is part of the Right from the Start project funded by the United Way of Lake County. There is a sliding fee scale based on the family's ability to pay for the weekly counseling sessions, which last an hour and a half. For more information call the group leaders, Shirlee Rubinstein at 831-4225, or Susan Grossman at 433-0377.—by CAROL BRUSSLAN, M. Ed., Family Network teacher

DEAR MARILYN

Dear Marilyn,

With the holidays coming, my husband and I have been invited to visit with our grandchildren and their families in a nearby state. Any advice?

A: Lucky you. There is nothing sweeter for extended families than to be included in holiday festivities. It is equally important for your grandchildren, as you represent continuity and a strong past. A good relationship between grandparents and grandchildren is a luxury and should be treasured.

However, before you go, check with your children about their suggestions for holiday gifts. Know ahead of time what treats and indulgences your children consider appropriate. It's O.K. to arrive with a small toy or present for each child. Treat them individually, and try for a separate time alone with each grandchild. While visiting at your children's home, help with housework and chores. Baby sit. You might even consider taking the whole family on an excursion. Perhaps make it an annual outing during the holidays; something everyone can anticipate and enjoy.

If you can, take along pictures of your children when they were young and relate stories of their youth. The grandchildren will love it.

If your children ask for advice, give it. Otherwise be a listener or supporter. Never disagree with your children in front of the grandchildren. That can be hurtful to all. If your children discipline well, tell them so. It will mean a lot coming from you.

Editor's note: Marilyn Straus is an early childhood specialist. If you have a problem or concern you wish to address, write to Dear Marilyn, c/o Child Care Coalition of Lake County, P.O. Box 1252, Highland Park, IL 60035.

Which medication helps soothe skin irritation?

The growing stock of itch-relief medications on drug store and supermarket shelves may leave consumers confused about what product to pick for what problem.

To help with these sometimes difficult decisions, experts offer some helpful advice, including when to use the newly approved, prescription-strength itch-relieving hydrocortisone.

Consumers can more easily obtain prescription-strength hydrocortisone preparations, such as Lanacort 10. Preparations containing 0.5 percent hydrocortisone have been on the market since 1980, and many of these compounds, such as Lanacort 5, will still be available.

The newly approved over-the-counter product will be more effective than the 0.5 percent hydrocortisone because a higher concentration of medication gets into the skin.

Hydrocortisone preparations are effective in treating a wide range of skin irritations, but, like all drugs, they must be used with caution.

Used properly, these preparations will help relieve itching, irritation and inflammation caused by a variety of skin problems. Among them are eczema, psoriasis, seborrheic dermatitis, external feminine and anal itching, and contact dermatitis from various causes, including soaps, cosmetics, jewelry, insect bites, poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac.

People who know their skin irritation is caused by one of these problems can benefit from over-the-counter hydrocortisone products. They are among the safest and most effective. They are now more affordable and readily available to consumers without a doctor's prescription.

Hydrocortisone products should not be used for itching caused by bacterial or fungal infections such as athlete's foot.

Consult a doctor if you're unsure of the cause, or if the condition fails to clear up within a week.

Shimer College, an alternative to traditional college learning

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

For some students the attraction of a major college campus atmosphere is alluring. For students who are looking for a more personalized approach to education, then a smaller, private college is what they desire.

A tiny college in Waukegan is carving its niche as an alternative to the fast-paced huge campuses many students attend. Shimer College has a student body of 110 which is largely comprised of pre-law students.

"The students come for a different type of educational experience than the traditional educational experience they are used to," said Dave Buchanan, admission director.

Buchanan said the school specializes in studying from the original source materials often dubbed "great books."

"We would be termed a 'great book school.' All that we do is from the original volumes. We don't use textbooks," Buchanan said.

There are no large lecture halls at Shimer. The highest class size is 12.

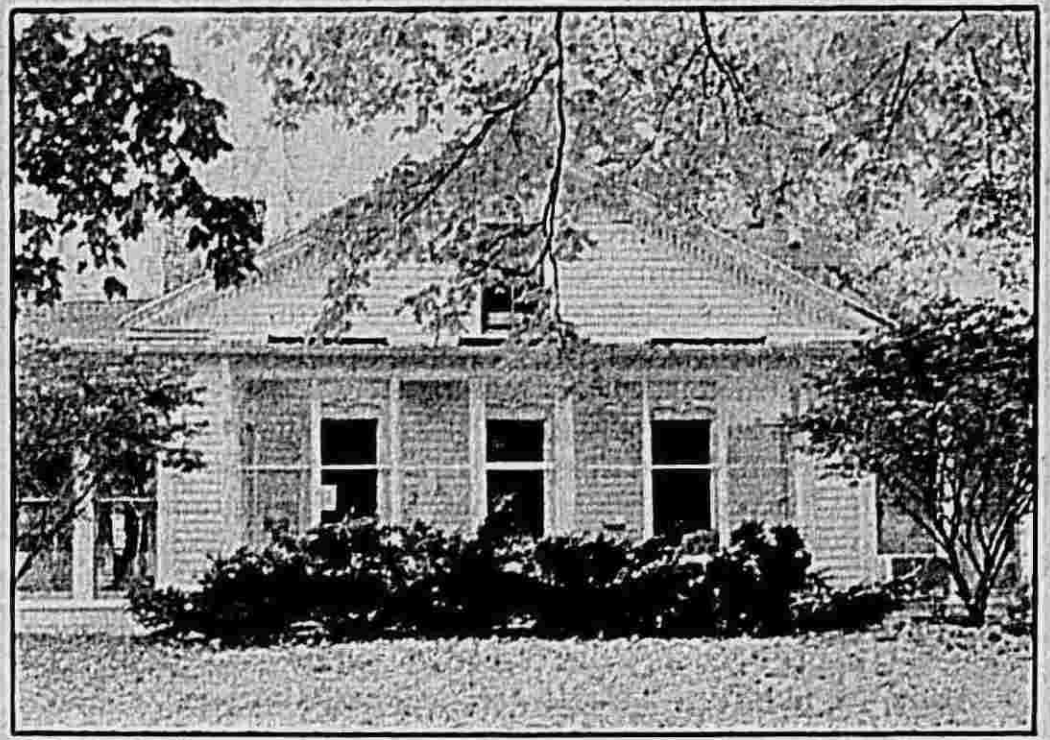

"All our classes are discussions. There are no lectures here," Buchanan said.

The college itself dates back to 1853. The original location was in Mount Carroll Ill., near the Mississippi River. The school moved to its current location in Waukegan in 1979.

Buchanan said the college was seeking a campus in Lake Bluff and when those plans fell through, the Waukegan mayor offered to lease the building the campus is located in. The school now owns the buildings it leased.

The school would like to grow to an average enrollment of around 350, according to Buchanan.

"We need to grow slowly. We don't want to have a lot of part-time teachers like a lot of other colleges. See SHIMER page B15

Riverside serves community as well as clients

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The Riverside Foundation, a not-for-profit organization, not only serves the mentally retarded, but also serves area businesses as well as the community at large. Throughout its 17 year history, the Foundation has been dedicated to the goal of helping clients reach their highest functioning potential.

The Foundation houses 97 residential clients and has 117 clients in the day program. All of the residents attend the day program and there is a waiting list for those wanting to enter the programs. The residential program is located in Lincolnshire and the provocation program is in Deerfield.

"In addition, we also serve residents from Mount St. Joseph at the RDS," said Foundation Director Pete Mulé. "They have a residential facility similar to ours."

The day program includes both employment training as well as self-care and development instruction. The programs at Riverside Development Services (RDS) focus on self-esteem and independent living skills because simply providing employment skills will not address the needs of clients. Much of the program is taught through classroom instruction and day-to-day participation in the greater community.

"We call it our prevocational program," said Mulé. "Our focus is to teach everyday living, coping, grooming, and social skills."

The workforce at RDS receive employment training in many areas. Clients are taught to work in the positions of assembly, bulk rate stamping, collating, heat sealing, packaging, sorting and stuffing, as well as in many other areas. This provides a versatile workforce available to area businesses.

After clients receive the necessary training, Riverside Development Services then sub-contracts work from area businesses. Baxter International, Armstrong Medical, and the Quill Corporation are just a few of the companies utilizing the RDS workforce.

The residential facility serves ambulatory adults who are challenged by mental retardation. Many residents also must contend with cerebral palsy and epilepsy. Individual programs are designed to enhance self respect, independence and interpersonal relationships.

The residential program provides specialized help including occupational, speech and physical therapies. Licensed nurses are on staff on a 24-hour basis to provide medical coverage and social workers participate in all aspects of client planning, including assistance to the family.

Recreational programs are not overlooked at Riverside. The goal of community integration are addressed providing opportunities for clients to form relationships within and outside the center.

Every summer, a number of Riverside residents participate in Camp Red Leaf. Camp Red Leaf is a year-round residential camp for both adults and children with developmental disabilities. Located on Wooster Lake in Ingleside, the camp provides an opportunity for Riverside residents to enjoy "roughing it" in a rustic environment.

The camp features log cabins, a heated outdoor pool, indoor recreation areas, a nature center, sports facilities, as well as an outdoor amphitheater for plays and performances. This year, 56 residents of Riverside attended the camp.

For Riverside residents unable to attend, the camp also features "Camp on Wheels." This service, provided by Camp Red Leaf staff members, offers camp style activities at the Riverside Foundation facilities. Originally developed for residents unable to attend the camp, many Riverside residents participate in both programs.

This weekend, the Riverside Foundation Auxiliary will host its 1994 fall benefit, Capture the Magic. A champagne brunch, live auction, and a raffle will be a part of this event.

Held at the Marriot's Lincolnshire Resort, the action begins at 11 a.m., Sunday, Nov. 6, with a cocktail reception and silent auction. Brunch will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and the live auction begins at 1:45 p.m. From 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. entertainment by Bob Higa, an illusionist, will be presented. Tickets for this exciting event are $100 per person. For more information call 634-3973.

The Riverside Foundation Auxiliary was formed in 1987 to support the activities of the Foundation through fund raising, and volunteer activities. In addition to the Auxiliary, family members of residents of Riverside meet monthly and support the organization through similar activities.

"Antarctica," an Omnimax film and exhibition that explores the mysterious beauty of the world's most remote continent opened Oct. 1 at the Museum of Science and Industry, 57th Street and Lake Shore Drive.

For the first time, the Museum presents a science topic through both the giant screen of the Omnimax Theater and the interactive units of an exhibition. Now visitors can visit the highest, driest, coldest and windiest continent on Earth, providing an all-encompassing sense of actually being there.

The exhibition includes interactive displays, penguin dioramas, video programs, three-dimensional models of Antarctica ice features, wind and ice sounds, and objects used by people who have lived and worked in Antarctica. A 2,500-year timeline traces Antarctic history, even though the continent is so isolated that people have had direct knowledge of it for scarcely 200 years.

The exhibition will continue to be on display until Jan. 2, 1995. For more information contact the Museum at (312) 684-1414.

Club Med It's Not Just For Singles

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Swinging singles frolicking on the beach all day and partying late into the night.

Is this how you picture a Club Med vacation?

Well, you're partially correct. Two of Club Med's eighteen clubs still cater to the "Young and Single" clientele.

However, of the remaining sixteen, six have activities geared toward couples with five specializing in Honeymooners. Another five aim at the family market with separate programs for the kids.

I'll tell you which clubs specialize in which in a moment.

Let's start with the family activities first. Club Med has special Clubs within the Club just for kids. For those as young as 4 to 23 months, there's the Baby Club filled with games, toys and even a Baby Restaurant with specially prepared meals. Then, there's the Petite Club for the 2-3 year olds, the Mini Club for the 4-7 year olds and the Kid's Club for the 8-11 year olds, offering anything from scuba diving to circus training.

Now don't think the kids have all the fun. The adult clubs also offer scuba diving as well as adult circus workshops in case you ever wanted to swing from a trapeze or be a clown for a day.

Each club has a wide variety of activities, but also specialize in a particular sport. If you really want to be in the circus, Club Med at Haululco Mexico would be your choice. If Scuba is your thing, the new Club Med at Columbus Isle in the Bahamas would be a good choice. For golf, Sandpiper in Florida is the place to be. Intensive programs in horseback riding are offered at St. Lucia.

Clubs for families would include Sandpiper, St. Lucia, Punta Cana, Eleuthera and Ixtapa. Honeymooners will enjoy Paradise Island in the Bahamas, Caravelle on Guadeloupe, or Turquoise. Swinging singles? Your Clubs are Buccaneer's Creek on Martinique and Playa Blanca in Mexico.

The politicians are coming, the politicians are coming!

Yes, folks, it's turkey time! (No, I'm not talking about Thanksgiving.) In just four more days, on Nov. 8, we have what is known here in America as "Election Day." Don't worry—it's not a holiday (except if you get elected, in which case every day is a holiday), so there's no need to send anyone a card and make Hallmark any richer.

Unless of course you want to send a card to an elected official, and remind him of your campaign contribution. You can probably deduct it later on your income tax under "lobbying expense."

Now, before you get out your "Ross Perot for President" button (caught you, didn't I?), remember this is not a Presidential election. It's one of those off years, where you get to vote mostly for people you have never heard of to be elected to offices that you haven't a clue what they're for. I don't know about you, but I find that without intense, irritating, constant media coverage of the candidates, it's tough to make a decision at the old voting booth. So you have to be creative. (Actually, I'm going to be creative for you.)

For the timid at heart, we have the tried and true "straight ticket" method of voting. You choose "Republican" or "Democrat." While this method may be called a "no brainer," you at least can be sure that your candidate is receiving some support from the Republican or Democratic party, and thus owes some allegiance to one or the other for now. After the election, he's free to choose from hundreds of lobbyists in order to make his policy decisions.

For those who like to live dangerously, we have "closed eye" voting. Simply put, you have no idea who any of these people are, so you blindly punch names at random. In the case of only two candidates for office, your chances are 50/50 that you'll get either one or the other. Sounds good to me.

For procrastinators, there is the "last minute handshake" method. This is where you go to your polling place, wondering who the heck you're going to vote for, and as you get out of your car, you're surrounded by candidates who are making that last ditch effort to get elected by shaking your hand, talking your ear off and handing out pens, buttons or rulers with their names on them. If you like pens, you vote for the candidate who gave you the pen, and so on.

The best part is, you have the pen with you at the voting booth, which helps you to remember their name.

Wait—what am I thinking! How could I forget! We have the gubernatorial (ever wonder what a guber is?) candidates to choose from.

Decisions, decisions! Tell me something—do you believe that Dawn Clark Netsch plays pool? Neither do I. Somehow I cannot conjure up a mental picture of her hanging out with the guys in the pool hall, sipping a beer, belching and yelling, "Put your quarters up here, boys! Uurp!" Actually, in those commercials I've seen, it's hard to tell if she's holding the pool cue, or she is the pool cue.

And then there's Jim Edgar. At least he has an existing track record as governor for me to judge him by. For instance, let's start with all of the things he had done to improve Illinois' public school system:

Hmmm. Maybe I'll just write in "Oprah" for governor.

Cooking by the Book

Keep the spice, lose the fat

At first blush, the title of Jude Theriot's new cookbook, "Cajun Healthy," (Pelican Publishing Co., 1994) appears to be an oxymoron. The two don't seem to go together.

The rich, soul-satisfying gumbo, crabmeat sautés and pecan pralines that are a mainstay on the bayou may please the palate but take their toll on the waistline and arteries.

Theriot got religion before his body decided to rebel. He started a program of regular exercise and hacked most of the fat out of his recipes. In the process, the chef says he was able to lose more than 70 pounds while still chowing down on traditional, but modified, Cajun cuisine.

This cookbook, his fifth, is a compendium of soup, salad, appetizer, seafood, poultry, vegetable and dessert recipes. Each is followed by a calorie count as well as breakdown on fat, protein, carbohydrates, cholesterol, fiber and sodium.

And most also carry a lagniappe—an extra tip or personal comment on preparing and serving a dish.

Not all of Theriot's shortcuts will universally appeal. For example, he may call for canned peas yet fresh or frozen seem a better choice. Likewise, he makes frequent use of artificial butter-flavored seasoning, something purists may opt to omit entirely.

Here's one dish of Theriot's that proves low-cal alternatives need not detract from a flavorful Cajun feast:

Crabmeat picard

2 Tbls. unsalted butter
1 large onion, finely chopped
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/4 cup carrots, finely chopped
1 medium red bell pepper, finely diced
1/2 tsp. sage
1/2 tsp. sweet basil
1/4 tsp. thyme
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
2 Tbls. flour
1 13-oz. can evaporated skim milk
1/4 cup dry vermouth
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. Tabasco sauce
2 cups corn flakes, toasted in oven
1 lb. lump crabmeat
1 cup fat-free cracker crumbs
Paprika

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In a large skillet over medium heat the butter until melted. Add onions, celery, carrots, and red bell pepper and sauté for 5 minutes. Add the sage, basil, thyme and nutmeg and mix until well blended. Add the flour and cook for 4 minutes, stirring constantly until blended.

Add the skim milk, vermouth, salt and Tabasco; stir until well blended. Mix together the toasted corn flakes and crabmeat, then stir it into the sauce mixture. Fold together until well blended. Pour into six individual baking dishes or casserole dishes. Sprinkle the cracker crumbs on top of the casseroles and dust them lightly with paprika. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serve hot.

Shimer

We don't want to do that. We want to bring in additional faculty to blend in with the growth," Buchanan said.

Many of the students come from the Chicagoland area. The rest are scattered from throughout the nation.

Students can choose among three majors; natural science, social science and humanities. Students have to take 85 credits of required classes and 45 electives.

"Most of the students don't know what their major is until their senior year. The advisor will tell them they need a few classes in a certain area to graduate with that major," Buchanan said.

Many of the students go on to graduate school.

The school has distinguished faculty. Among them is Don Moon, Shimer president, who has a masters degree in Nuclear Reactor Engineering at New York University and bachelor of science in Engineering Physics.

The school offers campus housing for 40 students and financial aid packages are available.

The cost of tuition is $12,000 a year. Buchanan said cost should be the last criteria a student should use in choosing a school.

"The schools that cost more also offer more in scholarships. Over 90 percent of our students receive scholarships or financial aid," Buchanan said.

Shimer also has special programs designed for varying student needs. Among them are a weekend program, an early entrant program, concurrent enrollment; high schoolers who take college courses, transfer programs for students and senior classes at reduced cost.

'Affair' romantic repeat replays

Annette Bening and Warren Beatty

Well the movie industry is less than a century old and already writers who get paid megabucks have run out of original story ideas, or different twists of the ever-popular boy meets girl—gets—loses, etc.

It seems we are doomed to a few remakes of fine classics every year, lately with real-life husbands and wives doing the repetitive honors, most of them paling when compared with the original, despite the advent of electronic genius.

Last year we had "The Getaway," 1993 in which Alec Baldwin and spouse Kim Basinger failed to match-up to the original Steve McQueen-Ali McGraw epic of 1972.

And let us not forget the Melanie Griffith-Don Johnson "Born Yesterday" fiasco which had few of the finer moments of the 1950 Broderick Crawford-Judy Holiday, Oscar-winning flick.

Just the other day we saw a TV promo for the latest version of "Miracle of 34th Street" that might come as close to the Edmund Gwen classic as all the remakes of "It's A Wonderful Life" did.

Beatty and wifey Bening make their try at becoming the Lunt and Fontaine, or Cronyn and Tandy, of the 1990s in the second remake of "An Affair to Remember," this time titled "Love Affair."

Though Beatty still seems a little old for Bening, the two have a little more chemistry going in this one than they did in "Bugsy."

Beatty helped write the script for the remake of the remake (Charles Boyer and Irene Dunne were the stars first time around.)

The story's almost the same in this nice bit of romance—they meet—plan to remeet—don't meet because unknown to him, she has an accident—then they meet again and wheel-off into the sunset together.

The best parts of the new movie are the clothes designed for both stars, and the gorgeous island photography.

We enjoyed the film, but can't say that we hope Beatty and Bening become the new Hepburn and Tracy.

Speaking of Hepburn, she has the cameo role of the ladies man's (Beatty) aunt and does herself proud as an octogenarian-plus.

We'll give "Love" three out of five stars, hoping that this isn't a fast spreading disease that could bring us the cast of "Beverly Hills 90210" in "Grease," or the chick that plays Blossom skipping down the Yellow Brick Road towards the Emerald Space City, or nightmares worse than any on Elm Street, that have Holly Hunter and a mustached John Travolta in "Gone with the Wind, the Second Time Around," or Bruce Willis saying "Here's looking at you, kid," to Isabella Rossellini.—by GLORIA DAVIS

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Singles begin a lively dating cycle. Romantic introductions are indeed likely. However, you should guard against business disputes this week. Stay away from controversy that others are generating.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Mixing business with pleasure will be to your advantage in the coming weeks. An ethical question could cause conflict between you and another party this week. Instead of looking for a black or white answer, try the gray areas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Travel may well lead to an introduction to a new admirer in the coming weeks for those of you who are single. Couples enter a renewed period of romance. Be careful not to overspend this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You may be investing in an antique or luxury item in the near future. However, shop around first to be sure you're getting the best buy possible. It will be a productive work week, but with partners, there will be a need for compromise.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Try not to let tension at work interfere with your performance on the job this week. Avoid getting dragged into a situation which was not of your making. Romance promises to be a major highlight.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Your personality will be an asset in business affairs in the weeks ahead. An assignment comes that is not only to your liking, but will show off your diverse talents as well. Questions relating to intimacy arise this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You'll be getting more fun out of life this week. Singles will meet with a new romance. Those of you who are attached also experience new vigor in your love life. However, extra consideration is needed concerning a sensitive relative.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You may be entertaining out-of-town guests in the weeks ahead. Others will start redecorating their homes. An out-of-sorts co-worker may try your patience this week, so do your best to avoid this person. Bigwigs are watching.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Local travel will definitely have romantic overtones. Social life is favored, providing that you avoid disputes about financial matters. Instead, look for amusements that are inexpensive.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A tendency to be bossy with family members needs watching. Be sensitive to the feelings of someone close to you. It's a good time for getting involved in group activities or community issues. The weekend favors shopping expeditions.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) The weeks ahead find you turning your energies into improving your physical appearance. Charm eases your path this week. However, some cranky types may be encountered this week. Take this with good humor. It soon passes.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Couples will shut out the world and spend more time with each other in the coming weeks. This week, a touchy friend is easily offended. Try not to be drawn into a silly quarrel. The weekend is good for visiting relatives.

Phone dealer sells service

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

Scott Bellak of Bell Communications in Mundelein admits it. You can basically find his brands of cellular phones anywhere. To be fair, that is no different than most retail products.

It is what Bellak has to offer in addition to his retail products that makes his store more unique.

"Our largest mission statement is customer service," he says.

Bellak offers service by repairing the phones he sells. In fact he'll repair any make of phone with a factory authorized technician in house. Depending on the brand and the severity of the problem, many times customers' phones are repaired while they wait. This is achieved by a knowledge of what ongoing parts are necessary and by having those parts in stock at all times.

If a cellular phone is still working but its performance is suspect, anyone can bring their phone in for a free 10-point checkup. Anyone means they need not be customers of Bell Communications.

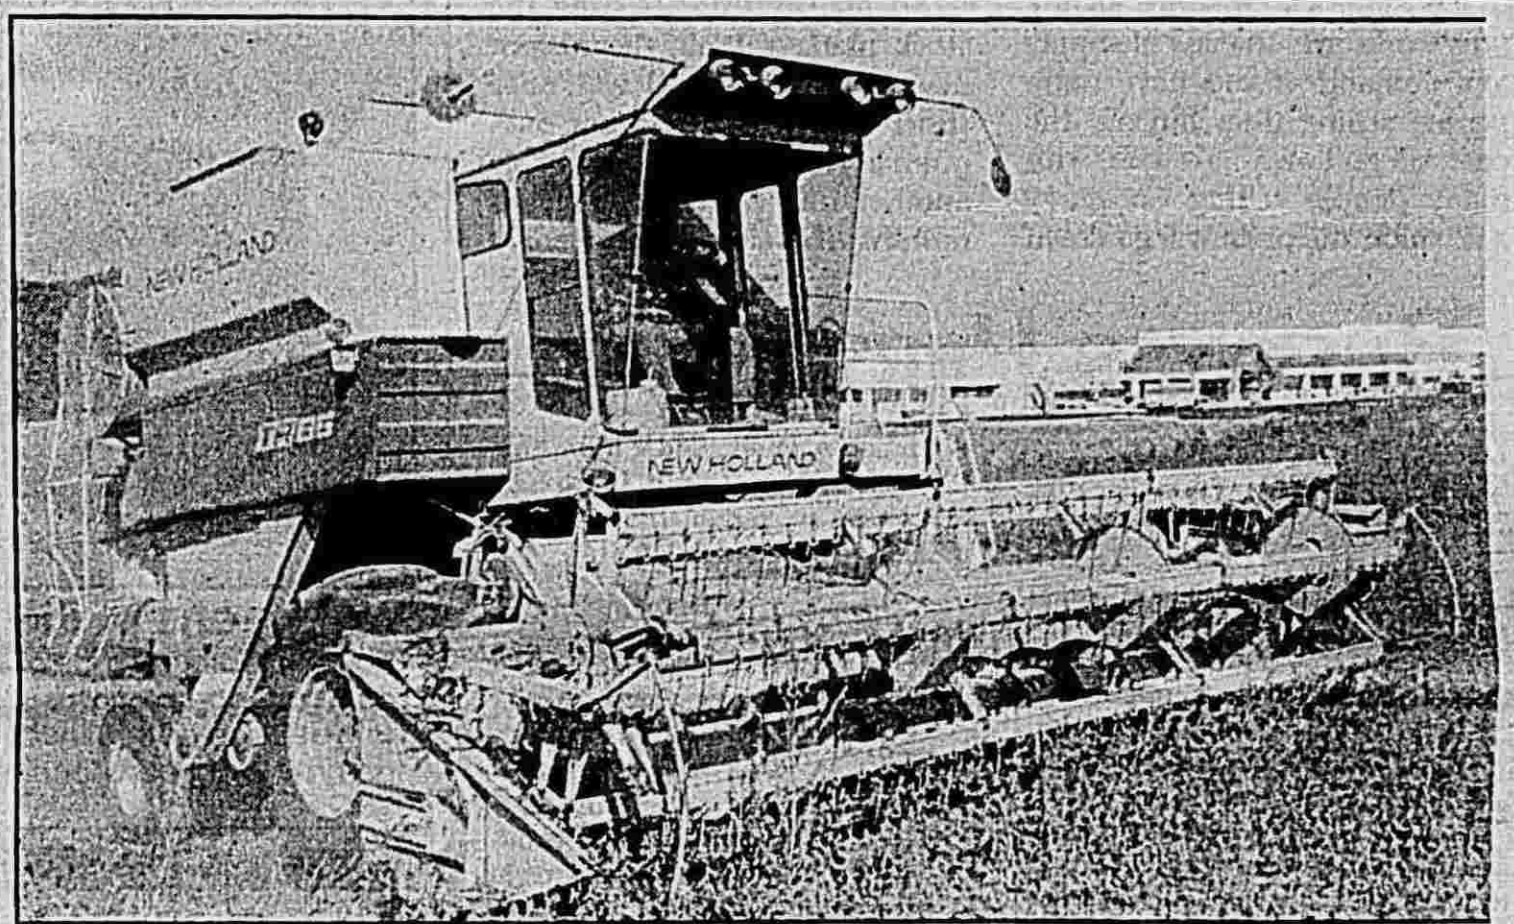

Bellak has also tapped into a growing trend in automotive service—the one stop auto service mall. He has leased space in the same building with American Motorworks at 309 North Lake St. in Mundelein.

"The idea is to eliminate the middleman. People who need something else done to their car need can have it repaired directly at the source, right down to rebuilding engines. It also makes it easier when you only need to drop your car off at one location to get everything done," Bellak said.

Bellak offers top brand cellular names like Motorola, Nokia, Uniden, Oki, Panasonic and Ericsson along with Cellular One air packages. He has been in the cellular phone business for several years, in partnership with a store in Glenview before branching out on his own.

Bellak has lived in the Mundelein area for four years now. Opening the business in town goes along with his philosophy for service.

"I truly believe I am helping my community by opening a business here," he said.

Advisory board named for bank grant

First of America Bank-Northeast Illinois, N.A., announced the formation of an advisory board for its FirstGrant program. FirstGrant is designed to give teachers extra money for classroom projects and programs that enhance the students' learning experience. The advisory board, comprised of local business, education and community leaders, will accept grant applications and select FirstGrant award recipients. First of America will award up to $25,000 in FirstGrants this year.

"The advisory board is a vital resource for this program," said Nancy L. Singer, president and CEO of First of America Bank-Northeast Illinois, N.A. "The FirstGrant program is one way we can impact the quality of education in our community. To help us do this, we're tapping into the wealth of human resources in the community. The collective experience these individuals bring to the FirstGrant board is tremendous."

According to Singer, the board will review applications from teachers and award individual FirstGrants of up to $1,000. Awards will be based on the proposed project's contribution to existing school curricula, its approach to encourage student involvement and its innovation. Recipients will also be required to provide a follow-up report to measure the effectiveness of their program.

INVESTMENT TRENDS

Noah A. Seidenberg,
Investment Representative of Edward D. Jones & Co.

What is the condition of today's stock market trends?

As the stock market has been looking for a direction, many people have been asking, what is going on with the stock market? The answer is, it is waiting for some real news.

One of the primary components of the stock market people need to remember is that the market moves based on what people feel. For example, if people have the perception that something bad is going to happen to Company XYZ, regardless of any news coming out of the company, people will start to sell Company XYZ.

This mass of people selling now works into the law of supply and demand. If you have more people selling than buying, the cost will go down. Likewise, with many people selling Company XYZ stock, the price will go down even though three has been no significant news from the company to justify this.

Essentially, this is what has been happening to the stock market this year. The only news coming from companies has been generally good. Many companies are reporting stronger earnings than last year, yet the market hasn't been able to generate any upward move of any consequence. Part of the reason for this has been the fact that the federal reserve has been artificially raising the interest rates.

The claim is that it is being done to try to harness inflation. The problem is, there is virtually no inflation at present. With inflation at around 3 percent, and no real signs of any increase, all that is occurring is that the fed is attempting to slow down the economy again.

So how is this affecting the stock market? Well, the newest news is that the fed will raise short-term rates another half point in November, and probably another half point again in six months. This causes a problem in that even though the fed hasn't said they were definitely going to do it, some highly placed people have made such comments which makes people perceive that it could happen. In turn, this makes the market hold its ground while it waits to see if rates actually do go up.

Another fine example of politicians and higher up having an effect on the market has been occurring for about the last two years. The biotechnology and pharmaceutical companies were one of the hottest groups of the late '80s, but when Hillary Clinton starts speaking about runaway health care costs and a national health care plan, this stock group goes from being one of the hottest to one of the coldest.

Again, simply on the speculation of what Mrs. Clinton might do, the stock prices of these companies get hit every time she speaks, as it renews the fear of what may happen.

It again comes down to one basic fact: Buy good quality companies at a fair price and ignore the petty news and blips about it. Reassess the companies' fundamentals on a regular basis, and as long as nothing significant changes, hold on and enjoy the rewards of investing in the stock market over the long-term.

Abbott and EDS get awards

Recognition awards were presented to Abbott Laboratories and EDS Corp. for their commitment to diversity at the AMIE Conference held at North Carolina A&T State Univ.

AMIE, Advancing Minorities' Interest in Engineering, is a coalition of the Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) and engineering professionals and leaders of Fortune corporations. Its vision is to increase the number of minority engineers in America by strengthening relationships between businesses and Historically Black Colleges and Universities.

The organization recognized Abbott for promoting the many contributions that talented minorities can bring to the field of engineering. In addition, the award acknowledges Abbott's leadership and initiative in convening the first two conferences and being the driving force in uniting the Fortune corporations and the HBCUs.

"We at Abbott are pleased we could help provide the impetus for the formation of AMIE," said Daniel O. Struble, Abbott vice president of corporate engineering and chairman of AMIE's Executive Advisory Committee. "We are gratified to see the progress AMIE has made during its first year in bringing together industry, government and the HBCUs to build a quality engineering workforce for the future."

Marvin Bemby, executive director of AMIE, stated, "EDS was recognized for its long-standing commitment to diversity by providing continued leadership, human and financial resources to ensure the realization of that concept. EDS has provided an executive-on-loan for two years to be AMIE's full-time executive director."

Firm moves to Hainesville

A former Libertyville well company is relocating to Hainesville and has already broken ground there.

President of the Henry Boysen Company, George Gaffke said he is equally as excited as the village about the move to Hainesville Rd. in the suddenly booming town.

In August the company started construction for their new headquarters and will be relocating all employees to the new site "hopefully before the end of year," said Gaffke.

A parcel of land purchased by trustee of the village Charles Green, is the location for a 1,900 square foot office and 10,000 square foot shop including a building which will house all of the needed equipment used by the company.

The 72-year-old well company is in the business of sales and service, drilling wells for residents, municipalities and commercial customers as well as maintaining them.

Sellers can offer incentives

When the media perpetuates that the market favors purchasers, the sellers need not resort to price slashing to compete with the scarcity of buyers. Other remedies besides price reductions can make a home particularly attractive when there is a glut of similarly priced properties in your immediate marketplace. By peaking the interest of a prospective buyer, your home can sell, much to the chagrin of your competition.

There are several ways to effect this positioning. Instead of lowering the price to compete, which causes lower market appraisals, consider offering a credit to the buyer a closing to offset moving costs of closing fees. Decorating allowances can be an incentive, although it is generally more productive for the seller to pay for cosmetic and structural improvements prior to marketing the home. Even with a well decorated property, there will always be some buyers that want to "personalize" and change some aspects of the property anyway. Having cash at closing is always great to have for a new buyer, regardless of which aspect of the purchase the cash will help.

The most common way a seller can participate with buyer assistance is paying for the points on the buyer's mortgage amount. Points can be paid for both FHA, VA or conventional mortgages. Another alternative is seller assistance for a "buy down." This occurs when the seller pays additional points to lower the interest rate for the purchaser to "buy-down" the current mortgage rate. The lender can then offer the new buyer a lower interest rate for a period of one to three years, yielding a generous savings to the buyer during the early years of the mortgage life.

The seller can deduct the buy-down costs from the basis of the home, and get a sale at fair market value. The buyer gets home ownership and an affordable interest rate for the early years of ownership. It is less common to find seller assistance to market higher priced properties. Surprisingly, even high end buyers look for "enticements" to peak their interest and sense of "the deal."

In some cases, including personal furnishings can help create buyer enticement. Offering special sun room furniture or game room custom features can satisfy the emotional and logical needs of the prospective buyer. Consider including custom pieces if they will not work in a new home. Avoid including anything that has special significance to your family.

Properties that enjoy waterfront locations often have recreational equipment, like boats that can be offered as an added incentive to peak buyer interest. Workbenches can also be an attention grabber when they are too elaborate to move easily, and the buyer is a weekend carpenter. By not including these items directly in the sale package, you can use them as negotiating tools above the purchase, creating a higher level of attention and awareness for selective buyers.

Since condominiums and townhomes have the same exteriors in a development, a seller can entice a buyer into inspecting the property and creating interest by offering a credit toward assessments for a year. This can clinch the sale for a marginal or wavering buyer that is faced with several fairly similar units. Assessment credits can make the difference for more buyer traffic and, hopefully, a sale.

For homes that offer a generous lot or acreage as included for sale, offering the lawn care equipment as a part of the negotiations can help a sale. A new buyer will look at the out-of-pocket costs of time and money for buying tractors and mowers, and may decide that including this personal property in the purchase to really sweeten the transaction.

Even fantastic incentives won't work if the home is not competitively priced and properly staged with motivated parties ready and willing to help each other. Look for items or create a service to make your home a more interesting offering in the market place.

JOHN WILL BE BACK TO WORK TODAY SHOULD WE BRING UP MARY'S DEATH?

A good guideline when a friend loses a loved one is to express your sympathy at the funeral or visitation. If for some reason you didn't get the chance to do that then, express your feelings at the first opportunity. After that, make it clear that you're willing to listen to your friend if he or she wants to talk. Some bereaved persons report that friends avoid them, or else they go to the other extreme and talk about the death constantly. Neither of these is the appropriate. Resuming old conversational topics while allowing the person to bring up their feelings about the death is the best way to be helpful. Death is a part of life, it should not be overly dwelled on or avoided.

How To Write A Bestseller.

Give the reader all the specifics.

Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as:

- color • size • condition
- brand name • age
- features • and benefits

Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts.

Include the price.

Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

Avoid Abbreviations.

Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW tires (white side wall) and won't take the time to figure them out.

Include phone number & hours.

Let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

Run consecutive weeks.

Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your sales representative. Run your ad for at least two weeks.

The Lakeland Newspapers friendly classified advertising representatives are happy to assist you with your ad over the phone. They even assist you with writing your ad. Just call (708) 223-8161 to place your classified ad. Representatives will help you with your ad by phone Monday thru Thursday, 8 am to 8 pm and Saturdays 8:30 am to 2 pm. # WINTER WONDERLAND Lakeland Newspapers

Element of surprise a welcome addition to landscaping

When hiking through the woods down a winding pathway, do you ever wonder what is up ahead? When walking up to a gate that is higher than your vision, do you ever wonder what is on the other side? When approaching a thick, lush evergreen hedge, do you ever think about what is hiding? This element of surprise or anticipation is a welcome element to a landscape design.

A pathway that is elevated can give one a feeling of being large as they look down upon a garden. A dip or depression in a path with elevated plantings on both sides can give one a feeling of being surrounded by plants. As a landscape architect, I feel one of my responsibilities to my customer is to create the most interesting path, arousing all the senses, when traveling from point A to B.

Good landscape design involves site inventory, analysis, preliminary sketches, refining the sketches, and then the master plan. However, great landscape design involves more than book knowledge; it requires a feeling that we can create for one another. Remember as children how we were filled with wonderment over any little thing? This must be awakened and used in landscape design. This can be achieved in many ways, however, each site needs to be treated differently. It's almost as if you have to rub your boots into the surrounding soil or sit down in an area for awhile and let the land talk to you.

Plants can help arouse one's senses. Want fragrance? Try a Viburnum 'Judd' in your garden. Want to shock someone as they enter your gardens? Use a contorted witchhazel. There are as many plants as one can think of to emit emotions in someone, and their arrangement in the landscape is as important as the plant itself. Want a peaceful emotion to emit? Design a trickling waterfall. Want privacy? Design a 10 foot high wall of conifers, ornamentals and flowering shrubs to hide the outside world.

Besides plants, lighting and hard-scape materials (brick, flagstone, blue-stone, wood, etc.) both add to the overall feel of the design. Remembering that every site creates problems and has assets to it can help one to achieve a great design.

Emulating great work is O.K. to do, for most of these designs are not new, and they were also emulated in part or in whole. Always questioning and carefully listening to customers can also help achieve a great design.

I feel it is very important to have a questionnaire that the customer should review and then fill out. And this questionnaire should be tailored to fit residential sites as well as commercial sites, park areas, conservation areas, etc. The more we know about our customer, the better we can achieve their dream-scape.—by MIKE GRECO, landscape architect/owner Mill Creek Nursery, Wadsworth

Educational program combats silent handicap

The Food and Drug Administration and national broadcast media reported on this country's most common disability. In fact, misinformation and lack of consumer education restrict Americans from overcoming the number one disability in this country—hearing loss.

Free educational programs are available to help the 28 million Americans who suffer from hearing loss. The most widely used program is Dial A Hearing Screening Test (DAHST). DAHST is a free, recorded telephone hearing screening test that allows Ogle County area residents to check their hearing levels in the privacy of their own home. DAHST is sponsored by Miracle Ear Center and is designed to promote better hearing health.

By calling 232-TEST, you will be connected with the local DAHST program. When using DAHST, eight technically-tested tones will sound. If you don't hear all eight tones, you are advised to seek a more comprehensive hearing test. The two-minute recorded message also gives a list of medical problems associated with hearing loss and a local referral for further information on hearing awareness. Place the call from a quiet room using a quality telephone.

"Hearing loss is a disability that is preventable in many cases," says George Biddle, national coordinator for DAHST. "One way to reduce the incidence of hearing loss is to educate Americans on what the causes are, how to avoid them and how to seek immediate help if someone has a hearing loss.

DAHST is an excellent method to increase awareness about hearing health."

For more information on hearing loss, call the National Information Center, 1-800-222-EARS, weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Health reform goals now lost

When health care reform was pushed to the top of the national agenda two years ago there were twin goals: bring soaring medical costs under control and expand access to health insurance. Somewhere along the way the administration and Congress decided that cost containment was too hard to accomplish and politically difficult to sell, so it was dropped. The health care reform debate now focuses on the single issue of universal coverage. This is unfortunate and potentially disastrous.

When universal coverage is a worthy goal, to achieve it without first getting a handle on the underlying economic problems in the health care industry would promote even greater use of costly medical services and would have server economic consequences.

Bringing costs under control, however, won't be easy because the health care industry doesn't follow the usual supply and demand principles of economics. There are far more medical gadgets and hospital beds than patients, yet prices continue to go up. The competition for patients forces a sort of medical equivalent of the arms race and produces greater pressure to make sure new equipment and services are used, whether or not they are needed.

Another problem with the economics of health care is that consumers are usually left out of the equation. In most cases, products and services must be price and quality sensitive in order to compete for customers in the marketplace. In health care, consumers seldom have a voice in medical decisions, have little information about quality and even less often know the true costs of their medical care. The pervasive feeling among health care consumers is that someone else, insurer or employer, is paying the bill. The fact is everyone eventually pays the bill.

Help for the overstressed woman

MERRY MILLER, M.D.

Janice found herself racing all day. When she wasn't trying to please her boss, she was trying to control her kids, drive them to their multiple activities each day, clean her home, prepare meals, not to mention greet her husband after work. She wondered when she could have time for herself again. Sometimes she felt like running away.

Across the neighborhood, Susan was having similar feelings. Although she did not work outside the home, Susan also felt overloaded with the multiple demands of the day. Her new baby required so much attention. The house never seemed to be "caught up." Laundry, meals, shopping, and on and on. She could not remember the last time she had fun.

Janice and Susan are two of many. Many forces within our society today as well as within women themselves may lead to exhaustion. Many women stretch themselves very thin, struggling constantly to please others yet neglecting themselves. They have much difficulty saying "no" to requests from others, and if they do they harbor much guilt. They push themselves to be giving and available, but then sometimes feel resentment that others have required too much from them.

Relationships with others are critically important to most women. From their girlhood, females develop their capacity for empathy. Women base much of their sense of well-being on their sense of emotional connection with others. Current theories about the psychology of women suggest that women are less likely than men to base their self-esteem on achievements, as important as work may be, and instead derive much of their sense of self-worth from the status of their relationship with others.

Herein lies the dilemma for many women. They place much value on their relationships with others, and want to be good caretakers for their family and friends. Yet the more they try to be available to others, the less they may feel they have to give. Over time, many women come to feel drained and depleted. They may get less and less satisfaction from their lives, and may begin to devalue themselves. They may avoid conflicts and inhibit anger out of fear of jeopardizing their relationships. Many women struggle internally over how much to give of themselves to others.

So what can women like Janice and Susan do to feel better? And what can others do to help such women feel more valued and less overwhelmed? Here are a few suggestions.

1. Ask for help. Partnering with one's spouse should include give and take, with discussions about problems as they arise. Overwhelmed women should ask their spouses as well as children to pitch in and share responsibilities. They should work together to seek solutions and take joy from taking action.

2. Cultivate relationships. It is wise not to be overly dependent on a single relationship, but instead to cultivate a variety of friendships. Seek friends who are caring and affirming. A rich network of relationships can play a large role in making women more resilient when stresses do occur.

3. Learn to set limits when needed. This may mean reevaluating priorities and eliminating some activities or asking others to take over. Learn to say "no" without guilt. Give yourself permission to turn down invitations, requests, and solicitations some of the time.

4. Learn to communicate well. Healthy communication of one's needs involves learning to speak up clearly and directly. The extremes of passivity and aggression are much less likely to lead to successful problem-solving.

5. Develop interests. Diverse activities and involvements can lead to a fuller life and protect against stresses.

6. Set time aside for pleasure. Give yourself permission to have fun, and make it a priority. Treat yourself to something you enjoy, breaking your usual routines.

Women have come a long way in our society in some respects, but at times the stresses on women can be enormous. Women can grow healthier and happier if they can develop stronger bonds with others and achieve mutuality in their relationships.

National Home Care Week celebrates 'The People's Choice'

Caregivers Home Health of Mundelein and Barrington along with agencies nationwide, joins Congress and President Bill Clinton in celebrating National Home Care Week, Nov. 27 through Dec. 4.

Millions of Americans of all ages need long-term care services, either because of a chronic illness or a permanent disability that renders them helpless to perform basic tasks of daily living without assistance. Currently, it is estimated that between nine and 11 million Americans of all ages require long-term care. This number could double by the year 2030 to more than 19 million.

According to a study done by Louis Harris and Associates, Inc., most Americans chose home care over nursing home care for long-term care needs.

"There is a pattern in terms of American attitudes toward health care, one of which is a real commitment to long-term care, especially home care," writes Harris, one of the nation's most distinguished pollsters, who released a survey titled, "The Public Mandate for Health Care Reform in America."

Eighty-five percent of the respondents said long-term care should be given a high priority within the health care system.

"Home care is an excellent and cost-effective alternative to institutional care, providing patients a way to recover in a familiar environment surrounded by their loved ones," said Anne Melligan Weirich, Administrator. "Modern technology has developed to the point where virtually anything that is available in a hospital can be provided at home. Considering the spiraling costs of institutional care and the growing number of Americans in need of health care, home care is clearly an idea whose time has come."

Proclaimed by an Act of Congress and by President Bill Clinton, National Home Care week provides the opportunity to pay tribute to the thousands who dedicate their lives to providing the highest quality care at home.

Caregivers Home Health Agency was founded in 1968 and has been providing high-quality professional home health care services to the Northern Illinois area since that time. Employing 100 nurses, therapists, home care aides, social workers, and other caregivers, the agency offers comprehensive home care from the most basic assistance with daily living to sophisticated high-tech medical treatment.

For information regarding home care services in your community contact 367-3838.

Video answers questions about prostate problems

The American Prostate Society has announced the release of a video that answers many of the questions men and their families have concerning benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH); symptoms, medication and surgery.

Symptomatic benign prostatic hyperplasia, or non cancerous enlargement of the prostate gland, has various ways of treatment. Many men need to know what their options are and if they are receiving up-to-date information. The release of this video is quite significant since four of every five men over the age of 50 develop BPH and are unaware of the options available for them.

The American Prostate Society is offering this video as a factual presentation of BPH, covering its affects on the prostate gland, symptoms and treatments. The video is geared toward men who are suffering from BPH. TURP, Transurethral Resection of the Prostate, surgery is covered extensively. Two medications, Proscar and Hytrin (terazosin HCl), prescribed for treatment of BPH are also addressed.

The society's purpose is to educate and inform—to present information that helps men and their doctors reach an informed decision on the treatment best available for them.

For further information on the video, write the American Prostate Society, BPH Video, 1340 F Charwood Rd., Hanover, MD 21076, or call 1-800-678-3178.

NEA hosts kick off for Christmas Seals Contest

The National Education Association (NEA) Health Information Network and officials from the American Lung Association have joined forces to announce the kick off of the "1994 Christmas Seals Kids' Drawing Contest."

The event, to be held at the Association's headquarters here in early November, will feature 1994 Christmas Seal Chairperson Shari Lewis and contest winners from previous years.

The national competition invites school children ages six to 15 to create a design around the theme "Things that make you feel good at the holidays." Winning entries will be featured in the Christmas Seals campaign for the 1995 season. Triaminic, makers of cough and cold medicines for children, has pledged $1 to the American Lung Association's children's programs for every eligible entry received.

NEA, the nation's largest education employee organization, is supporting the campaign by urging its members to make the drawing contest part of their planned classroom activities around the holiday season. To further publicize the contest, a notice will be published in the October issue of 'NEA Today', which is mailed to the Association's 2.2 million members.

"We are pleased to promote this activity on behalf of the Christmas Seals—an American tradition," said James H. Williams, executive director of the Network. "This contest offers a unique opportunity for children to help other children during a season of giving and hope."

Victory offers 24-hour help to victims of depression

A mother kisses her children good bye and waves as they walk toward the bus stop. Once they are out of sight, she bursts into tears. A business executive is irritable with his secretary. Behind the closed door of his office, he is frustrated and directionless; he finds he can hardly concentrate on the work he used to love. A young college student finds she cannot sleep since she broke up with her boyfriend. She stops eating, withdraws from her friends and cannot imagine that life will ever feel worthwhile again. An elderly man sits immobile on his bed, struggling to summon the energy to face the day.

These are the faces of depression: Young, old, educated, uneducated, men, women. Although everyone feels "blue" occasionally, depression is far more than a temporary state of sadness. It is a significant medical illness, just like diabetes or pneumonia, that afflicts more than 11 million Americans each year.

"Like many illnesses, depression may be caused by a genetic predisposition and/or severe external stresses. It affects physical health, disrupts body functions and robs the sufferer of the pleasure of daily living," says Linda Hale, patient care director for Mental Health Services at Victory Memorial Hospital.

The good news is that depression is a treatable illness. Research over the last decade has led to the development of new medications and other therapies, offering hope to millions who suffer from this illness. Yet, less than 1/3 of those with depressive illness receive appropriate treatment.

The first step in getting help for depression is to recognize the symptoms and seek the care of a physician or mental health professional. Getting the depressed individual to the doctor's office often requires the strong encouragement or insistence of family or friends. Victory provides a confidential, 24-hour crisis line at 360-4082 to help individuals identify symptoms and find appropriate care.

Once at the office, the doctor begins by interviewing the patient; asking about symptoms, possible reasons for the distress and any family history or past history of depression. He or she will also conduct a complete physical examination to rule out other causes of the symptoms.

"Unfortunately, there are no laboratory tests that are absolute indicators of depression," says Hale. "But a psychiatrist or other physician who has been well trained in the diagnosis of mental illness can make the determination based on a thorough assessment of the individual."

Once the diagnosis is made, the patient may be referred for further treatment by a psychiatrist or other mental health professional. In severe cases of depression, it may be suggested that the patient receive a few days' treatment in the hospital.

"Patients are admitted to the hospital when they need extensive diagnostic testing, when they are incapacitated by the severity of their depression, or when they are suicidal," says Hale. Victory Memorial Hospital treats patients for depression in its 24-bed mental health unit. The hospital also provides treatment through its day treatment and outpatient programs.

In psychotherapy, the depressed individual meets with a trained professional (a psychiatrist, psychiatric nurse, psychologist, social worker, or other counselor) to explore and eventually modify patterns of thought, feeling and social interaction that may contribute to the depression. Patients who need help adjusting to the strain of living with depression may also benefit from psychotherapy.

Antidepressant medications have been available for the treatment of depression since the 1950s. In the past, the side effects associated with these drugs—dry mouth, blurred vision, constipation, sedation or hyperactivity, weight gain and sexual dysfunction—limited their use. However, the development of new antidepressants with fewer side effects has led to increased use of these drugs.

In light of the advances that have been made in the understanding and treatment of this illness, no one should have to suffer through the isolation and despair of untreated depression. "Depressed individuals need to know they can and deserve to feel better," says Hale. "We are here to give them the help they need."

Eating specialist to speak

Dr. Jesse Viner, a prominent Chicago psychiatrist specializing in the treatment of anorexia nervosa, bulimia and compulsive overeating, has announced the opening of a North Shore division for University Behavioral Health at 1535 Lake Cook Rd., Ste. 208, in Northbrook. University Behavioral Health has offices at the Rock Creek Center in the southwest suburb of Lemont.

Dr. Viner, who is the medical director of University Behavioral Health, works with an integrated team of internists, pediatricians, other medical specialists, psychologists, licensed social workers, registered dietitians, nurses and exercise psychologists. University Behavioral Health has developed a comprehensive program that helps patients to overcome their symptoms and move towards a healthier relationship to food, themselves and other people in their lives.

"A professional approach begins with a comprehensive assessment of the individual medical, psychiatric, nutritional and behavioral status," Dr. Viner said.

"We work with our patients as partners. With the data of the assessment and guided by academic research about these disorders, the treatment goals and plans most likely to restore physical and emotional health is developed."

Rehabilitation unit plans open house

The new unit provides hospital-based rehabilitation for people faced with disability following a critical accident or illness, according to John Evans, R.N., M.S., clinical director of nursing at Saint Therese.

"For patients who, for example, may have had a stroke, rehabilitation as an inpatient plays an important part in recovery," Evans said. "Important progress is often made faster since patients spend more time in therapy with their treatment team."

Patients rehabilitating from disability are often working to recover functional skills needed in daily life. An objective for each patient admitted to the rehabilitation unit is to recapture the cooking, cleaning and other important skills which may have been lost. With the unit's home-like design, patient therapy mirrors normal living and better assists them in returning to their highest level of independence.

"Being able to closely monitor the patient in a controlled environment helps in assessing their strengths and weaknesses, and where they need to improve. The increased communication that comes from spending more time with the patient helps promote more efficient rehabilitation. Ultimately, the patient is the one who benefits," Evans said.

To visit the new unit, attend the open house on Nov. 11 from 11:30 to 1:30 p.m. at Saint Therese Medical Center, 2615 Washington St., Waukegan, seventh floor.

Grandparents visiting hours expanded

Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan, is making it easier for grandparents to meet their newborn grandchildren. Sue Keeley, patient care director of the hospital's New Family Center, has announced expanded visiting hours for grandparents.

"We understand the excitement and love grandparents experience at the birth of a new grandchild. Our new grandparent visiting hours were developed to increase the opportunities for families to share in the joy of welcoming their newest family members," says Keeley.

Grandparents are now invited to visit the New Family Center between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. every day. During this time, they can visit with the new mother, view their new grandchild in the nursery and scrub and gown to hold the infant.

"In order not to tire or disturb new mothers, the center does request a maximum of two visitors per patient at any one time," says Keeley.

For information or a tour of the New Family Center at Victory Memorial Hospital, call 360-4121.

Congrats

Congratulations to the Grayslake High School soccer team on your very first conference title. Those of us who have watched your efforts over the years could not be more proud.

Fix the lake

Can anyone do anything about Round Lake? The lake is terrible. It needs to have the weeds removed and to be cleaned. Any ideas out there?

Teach and entertain

This is to the people who think Grayslake School District 46 teachers are not doing their job. I am a student at one of the district's schools. I think they should be commended for their skills. I have been taught well and entertained too. I thank all the teachers of the district for giving their students a very special gift.

English, not Inglese

This is in reply to 'Habla Espanol.' Wake up, honey. You live in America and the language of the country is English.

Chipmunk terrorists

This is in response to 'Vote fools out.' You are right. Banning assault weapons is not enough. You need to ban handguns too. What does a law abiding citizen need with an assault weapon? Are you afraid the chipmunks will take over your backyard? Are you going to take your AK-47 out and shoot a bunch of deer? Are you stupid? Get rid of them all. You can keep your rifles and shotguns because they are hard to hide. Anything that has nothing to hunting, get rid of. If people don't have them, they can't kill each other with them. Legalize drugs while you are at it and they will have no

Illicit tax

Why is the Lake County Sheriff's Department and the State's Attorneys Office walking by obvious houses of prostitution in this county with blinders on? There are several areas in the county where this is taking place. If we let this go on, why don't we legalize it and put a tax on it? It is time to call the FBI.

Kids holiday

I am totally infuriated with Avon School. First the Round Lake Area says we can't have kids trick or treat on Halloween. Now, Avon school is not even celebrating Halloween. The kids have to dress up with how the teachers instruct them. What is this world coming to? This is for kids, not adults.

Crime free

Why wasn't there a police beat in the Round Lake News one week. It would be nice to know who the criminals are in town.

Back to church

The anti-abortion group that pickets in Vernon Hills every weekend is looking for trouble. There are enough pro-choice people in the county to give them a run for their money. Let's get these schlep people off the street and let people do what they want with their bodies. They can take their beliefs and send them back to the Catholic Church.

Clean it up

I am embarrassed to live in Round Lake Beach. I can't afford to live anywhere else. I am tired of hearing about all the drugs here, child abuses and other sick crimes. Please call the police and clean up Round Lake Beach because it is the armpit of Lake County.

Wit's end

I believe there is a law against loud music in cars. I can hear my neighbor blaring his stereo at 10 p.m. on Friday. This has become a habit. I try to talk to him but it doesn't do much good because he can't really understand me. I try to be a good neighbor and not call the police but I am at my wit's end.

Where do buffalo roam?

I miss the buffalo. What happened to the buffalo that roamed on Rte 83 and what is going to be built there?

Halloween hooky

I'd really like an explanation on Avon School. With kids not being able to dress up for Halloween or have a party. It is ridiculous. Halloween is for the kids. I am not letting my child go to school on that day because of this.

Fishy development

It looks like the Roney Development in Wauconda is back in the news again with the comprehensive plan. If the Roney farm development would have taken place with this plan it would have fit in perfectly. It looks like C & H is coming back to collect their just deserves from the mayor. They donated over $1,000 to his campaign. It sounds a little fishy to me. They don't even live in the area.

Return editorial

This is for Bill Schroeder, publisher. I'm sure all your reading public is happy you are a loving and happy grandfather. But, one man's family on the editorial page? I don't think so.

Another liberal

What is this nonsense that Walberg is trying to give us. Illinois has had a very strict law against automatic weapons for many years. It hasn't been effective. Now we have another law on the federal books so they can take up more bureaucratic time. I guess he is just another liberal.

No lawyers

As a taxpayer in the Fox Lake

grade school district, I am very pleased the teachers and school board have settled on a three-year contract without the involvement of lawyers and the cost that comes with them. It is a very good statement for both sides. We applaud you.

Should be a law

I think the Chain O'Lakes should set a precedent and make it unlawful to play loud music in the cars. You can't hear anything, especially emergency sirens. It is dangerous for them and other motorists. There should be a law. If they can pass a law that requires your headlights be on when you have your wipers on, they can pass this one too.

GangCable channel

Who are the invisible people who own apartment complexes? As more gang types move in, the decent people are fleeing. Drugs, drinking, and expletives are common place, and now we have a full scale going on between two gangs. Who needs cable TV. Just rent an apartment.

Yellow river

Now that Island Lake has lowered the lake level and started construction of the new, lakefront marina, maybe they could first do something about the yellow water that comes out of our pipes.

Proud American, again

Since I began to vote, I have voted for only two candidates who have won the presidency-Carter and Clinton. In my opinion, these are the only presidents who have been worthy of the office since Kennedy. I am proud that Clinton and Carter have won without bloodshed the overthrow of the Hottian military regime. Clinton was tough with Saddam Hussein without having to bomb innocent people or waste our soldiers' lives. Our economy is better than when Bush was in office. And even though Clinton could not pass health care reform due to the big bucks from the insurance lobbyists and the anti-Clinton people, he at least hasn't made it an issue to go away. The Republicans would rather think there is no problem. I am proud of President Clinton and Mrs. Clinton and am proud to call myself an American again. But, you probably won't print this because your paper is so slanted for the Republicans.

Referendum first

I am complaining about all the flyers being sent to the citizens of Grayslake, asking us to vote yes for the School District 46 referendum. How much money is being spent on all these flyers. Who is this Education First Committee? Wouldn't this money be better spent by being donated to the schools to go for the kids? Also, this referendum is a facility proposal only. Does this mean there will be more and more referendums to come looking for more money?

New head

Aren't the parents and the school board getting the message? When school ended in June, great teachers left. The problem still remains and is getting worse every day. If you are a parent and you care, take some action. Instead of a new school, Warren Township needs a new superintendent. See LIPSERVICE page C12

Ask not . . . .

This is in reply to 'Habla Espanol. The language of this country is English. We welcome all who come to this country legally. It is up to the immigrants to learn the language to function. Don't expect Americans to learn all of the languages of the world. Don't come here expecting to be catered to. Come here expecting to contribute to the country that is giving you freedom and a new life.

Splinters everywhere

Regarding Barbara Lumber, I think she is a fair person to her own political friends. She should look in her own backyard. I am new to Round Lake and I never heard of a mayor who wife is a trustee and whose son is on the police department. I sure hope someone runs against the Lumbers and cleans up Round Lake before it looks like North Chicago.

Consolidated vote

I hope I am wrong, but did I hear Barbara Lumber wants someone to walk around and make sure people are cleaning up their property. She should go to the trailer parks. Who is the Mayor of Round Lake anyway, Barbara or Jimmy? Let's all vote for consolidation and make Round Lake look like Round Lake Beach.

Dirty neighbor

School District 118 is building a new school in Island Lake on Newport Dr. They have promised to clean the road every night. There is an inch build-up of mud, dirt and rock in a two block area. The village building commissioner says he is powerless. It is a shame that District 118 is not a good neighbor.

Ruination

I am a Round Lake Area School student expressing my opinion about the strike. I think it is terrible. I think a lot of people will drop out because they don't want to go to school in the summer. I think the teachers are ruining our education. If they don't like it here, they should leave.

Students deserve better

Round Lake teachers, go back to school. I think you need to get back in the classroom and work this out in a different way. Our students need and deserve a good education. They need to be treated with respect.

Flippant teachers

I drove by Magee Middle School to see the teachers picketing. I beeped my horn and gave them a thumbs down. To show their professionalism, they flipped me off. I am totally against this strike. The teachers should be forced to live in their own district to pay taxes that go into their own salary. Maybe then we will get a better education product. There are not a lot of jobs out there paying $25,000 to $50,000 with full benefits, especially those that require you work nine months a year.

Pumpkin theft

I am a broken hearted grandmother who had two of the cutest little pumpkins prepared and displayed on my front step. Someone stole them. It just about changes my mind about Halloween. In Lindenhurst, you know who you are. Please return them to me.

Weather changes

Why is it either too hot or too cold in Woodland school? Please explain to the taxpayers why you can't keep on top of the temperature changes. You have two schools with church services all weekend with regular janitors on staff. Why do we always get the same excuse that the weather has changed over the weekend? Not true.

Where to leave?

I would like some information on burning leaves in the fall. I know it is unpleasant and all of that, but I am a senior citizen and am not healthy enough to do my own composting. Is there any place in Lake County that will accept leaves. My garbage company is high-priced and Social Security does not allow for extra things like that.

No butts

I wish people who smoke would not throw their butts down everywhere. It is disgusting and it is also littering, which is against the law.

Fashion is relative

This is to the caller who was complaining how the school board members dress. I think the board is doing a fantastic job in keeping Round Lake taxes down. They don't need to make a fashion statement. They need to get the kids a good education and they are doing that. Maybe if they were paid for the many meetings they attend, they would dress very nicely.

Tired of waiting

This is a suggestion to banking customers who have problems waiting. Come prepared. Most tie ups are from people who come unprepared. A prepared customer takes one minute to service, compared to an unprepared customer who takes three to five minutes. If a majority of customers come unprepared, there is going to be a wait. I am tired of waiting in line and seeing people blame the tellers. Blame the people who are unprepared. The tellers are doing a great job.

Union power

According to a local newspaper, only 46 percent of the employees who could vote for consolidation did so. The regional representative for the NEA, and Kim Kirby, Round Lake teacher's chief negotiator, were actively involved in the Magee School strike four years ago. Although Kirby was a Round Lake teacher at the time, he was part of Gavin's chief negotiating team. He was learning union strategies, no doubt. School board members never want a strike. They are volunteers who give plenty of time and energy freely. The board president is right. Who do the taxpayers want running the Round Lake School system—the rightfully elected board members or one of the most powerful unions in the U.S.?

Concrete progress

Hallelujah. Wauconda Rd. in Wauconda is finally being repaved.

Up in smoke

This is to the smoker's twilight. If you hadn't spent your money on that filthy weed, maybe you could pay your rent. Just think of how much of your money has gone up in smoke.

Narrow job description

A friend of mine had a son in calculus who had a question. The teacher said that was not in his job description. He said he did not work before school or after school. Are these people going to have that job description when they get their pay hike? I don't think they deserve a raise if they treat people that way. I think they all should be fired and we should start with brand new ones. It is too bad the teachers are not elected, because this teacher would not get a single vote. I also think it is terrible that grown adults cannot come to an agreement. I have a senior who doesn't know what he will do. Others are joining the service. My children may go to live with their father to go to school. It is deplorable. Do the new teachers who haven't been there a year yet deserve a pay raise?

Thanks firefighters.

I would like to applaud the Grayslake Fire Department for the wonderful open house. I would especially like to thank firefighter John who took my kids all over the fire house. They talked about him for days. They did a great job. It is nice to see where our tax dollars are going.

New board

The Wauconda Park District Commissioners are a bunch of mean-spirited petty bureaucrats and they must be stopped. The patrons are unhappy and the employees are being intimidated. There are three seats open next year and people need to run against them. We need people who have a vocabulary beyond four-letter words.

Look at teachers

As a daughter of a Round Lake School teacher and a mother of a child who goes to a different school district, I think the Round Lake School Board really needs to look at what they have. They have teachers who have been there up to 30 years, and many younger ones who are doing a great job. Maybe each board member should be a teacher for a week.

New school

This is to all the people in the Gavin School district who don't think Gavin Central needs a new school. Just walk through that dark, old place and you'll decide to build a new one.

Today's dollar

I live in Lake Villa and am in the Gavin and Grant school districts. I am really concerned about the circuit court ruling on the Lake Villa Unit School District. Millburn may be hurt for a while. A new school is needed because other buildings are being outgrown and are getting older. We can't continue shipping our kids out to five different school districts. We need a new school and we might as well build it with today's dollar instead of tomorrow's dollar. This is for the benefit of the children and today's tax dollar.

Helping himself

I am responding to the caller in favor of Bob Churchill. What are you, nuts? He is the typical do-nothing politician who has fooled you. He has a cozy arrangement of leasing space with that insurance agent, his campaign manager. Then, he hired that man's wife as his part-time secretary. I'm sure she punches in for her insurance job then for her campaign job. Right. His office does not have a sign notifying the tax payer where the office is. Apparently it blew down two years ago. It takes two years to replace the sign? He is a walking conflict of interest who takes part money from both sides of the issue. You are right. He does do a lot. Unfortunately, it is only for himself.

Crime & punishment

This has to do with crime. Dawn Clark Netsch wants to abolish the death penalty. Governor Edgar wants to keep the death penalty. In Chicago, we have children committing hideous crimes. It is about time we got some elected officials in office who punished the criminals, not the victim. The Democrats, Feinstein, Biden, Netsch say they have a tough crime bill with no compromises. The crime bill is a joke. On Nov. 8, every red-blooded American should go out and vote out these liberal Democrats. They have taken away the rights of law-abiding citizens. They have not been tough on crime at all. They need to punish the criminal with tougher sentences. Vote the liberals out. Our voices will be heard.

Kill cash cow now

When 75 percent of our Antioch tax dollars go for teachers' and administrators' pay, enough is enough. The teacher's get the gravy and the students get the crumbs. These over-priced babysitters show up 182 days per year. Once tenured, you cannot even fire the incompetent ones. Last decade was the first that the students learned less than the decade preceding it. It is time to wake up taxpayers. Kill the cash cow.

Where were you?

Where were you, Bob Churchill when the people of Antioch Township were battling the riverboats? In an interview in Lakeland Newspapers you claimed you are against riverboats.

Walberg is wrong

I have been a subscriber to the Lake Zurich Enterprise for two years and became a subscriber because of LipService. I'm calling about Walberg endorsing hand gun control. I doubt if Mr. Walberg has done any kind of survey and I don't believe any of his 'facts.' I would like to add that any gun control only affects the law-abiding citizens. A criminal in most cases would be glad to see honest citizens give up weapons because he knows he will keep his. One good example of assault weapons use is that they are used in .026 of one percent of crimes in New Jersey. Those are police statistics as reported by the Wall Street Journal. This is just one of the many misconceptions being proven wrong. I have even received literature from candidates asking if I am in favor of changing the second amendment to receive better gun control. If we start changing the second amendment we will be all in trouble in the land of the free. I think Walberg stinks.

Cow pie IQ

Antioch High School's referendum is like a date rape. First, we would politely say no. Then we would say no again and again. Now, the school board is trying to rape us again. Don't they understand when you say no, it means no. The school board must have the IQ of seven cow pies.

Vote liberals out

Governor Edgar is a decent man. Netsch said Edgar should get an apology from Pate Phillip. I think Netsch should explain to people why she is a tax cheat before she attacks Edgar. We have good people running in the election including Al Salvi, Phil Crane, Bob Churchill and Bill Peterson. They are not trying to take our rights away. Throw the liberal Democrats out. I thought once the crime bill was passed, children would be able to sleep better at night knowing they would be safe. Tell that to the 5-year-old boy who was thrown out of the window. If the Republicans can't do anything in four years, then vote them out too. I think the Democrats should keep their mouths shut and clean their own house. They have draft dodging president, a tax cheat running for governor, a state senator from Illinois and several representatives who have problems as well.

Care for elderly

Grayslake School District 46 is telling us to approve the building referendum and care for the children. I wonder if they are thinking about the elderly in this town who were here long before the children were. Are they also thinking about new families who are trying to make it?

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: I have been unemployed for a short time and have been avidly applying for positions in and out of my field. The problem is I have recently encountered an employer who mentioned that I have written "terminated" as for my reasons for leaving my last three employers. I was shocked when he asked me why I had been fired and that did not look real good on my application. I explained to him that I terminated my employment. The word "terminated" refers to an end. Why would he assume that meant I was fired? R.G. - Libertyville

A: Dear R.G. So as the employer will understand that there has been no wrong doing on your part, when asked about your reasons for leaving your employers be more specific so as to clarify that you terminated your own employment and for whatever reasons. If you left any of those employers for reasons other than the obvious...upward mobility and such, you should allow yourself the opportunity to explain instead of being read the wrong way. Most importantly remember that there are certain reasons for termination that are a turn off to employers. Examples of these are: Terminated for excessive absenteeism, left due to sexual harassment, involved in a law suit with and employer and other reasons for leaving which may be a threat to a future employer. Reasons for leaving...LESS IS MORE! And while you are trying to explain your reason for leaving your former employer...for whatever reason it may be...Never, never, never talk bad about them. The person interviewing you may see you as a problem waiting to happen. Hope this helps.

Q: Dear...Search: I have noticed that many positions advertised in the newspaper have been asking for salary history to be sent along with my resume. Since there are many different positions I am willing to pursue at this point I would hate to limit myself on my resume by including a salary that may scare off other potential employers while reviewing my background. Is it proper for me to include a separate sheet to my resume which would outline my salary history, to be sent only to those requesting such information? J.C.K. - Lake Villa

A: Dear J.C.K. Yes it would be proper and wise. You are absolutely correct in assuming that you may knock yourself out of the picture to someone who may have viewed your salary at $35,000 thinking you are untouchable. When in essence you may be willing to accept a salary of $30,000 which could be workable. Only include salary history if requested.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 4949 Grand Ave., Gurnee, IL 60031.

VAN DEVENDER

From the exterior, you can see that the Van Devender is not a large home. The 1850 square foot, three bedroom home is only fifty-eight feet wide, so it will easily fit on a standard lot. But when you step inside, the sense of spaciousness is surprising.

The vaulted foyer is richly illuminated and presents three choices of direction. A door on the left opens into the luxurious master suite, and a hallway is to the right. What catches the eye, though, is the vaulted great room, directly ahead - a comfortable large living area that brings together the functions of kitchen, dining room, living room and family room. A bank of windows, running almost the entire length of the back wall, shower the room with light. A fireplace, tucked into the corner farthest from the windows, provides a colorful focal point when the sky outside turns gray.

The kitchen is also much larger than one expects to find in a home this size. A dogleg-shaped eating bar adds to the work area and provides separation between the great room and the kitchen. The location of the sink means the clean-up crew won't be left out of the activities. A central pantry allows handy access to canned goods and other supplies.

Utilities are close at hand, and convenient to the bedrooms as well, tucked into a pass-through to the garage. This small room has a counter for folding clothes, a sink, linen storage and direct entry into the garage. Groceries can be brought in and put away with a minimum of bother.

Features in the master suite include a roomy walk-in closet, access to the back deck and a private bathroom. The toilet and shower are separated from the twin basins and mirror. This arrangement allows privacy where it is most desired and keeps the mirror free from steam.

For a study kit of the VAN DEVENDER (402-66), send $9.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name & number). For a collection of plan books featuring Landmark's most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark.

Stress is a fact of life in humans, animals too

Defined as physical, mental, or emotional tension, as a normal response to life's demands stress, in itself, is not all bad. The heart beats faster, blood pressure rises, the stomach tenses up, pupils dilate. Many activities create positive stress which helps keep body and mind active and alert.

Animals experience stress. In fact, it is natural for them to react to stresses in our lives. Companion animals thrive on an everyday balance of things that help keep them mentally and physically sound—exercise, play, a job to do, a nutritious diet, a secure, loving home. Provided with this balance, they are better equipped to handle stress when it does occur. Because an animal who is severely stressed is a candidate for illness or behavior problems, an owner should try to avoid pressures that cause negative stress in her animal's life and not allow them to accumulate to a dangerous level.

Our animals make adjustments to life all the time—that glum face as we pack bags for a trip; stress when introduced to another animal; a trip to the vet is stressful; a dog in obedience class feels the stress of learning commands. These normal responses usually do not last long. Other stresses, more deeply felt, can last longer: a marriage, new baby, divorce, illness in the family; loss of a loved human or animal friend; arguments, harsh words, tension within the family; owners so busy they never have time for their animal anymore. Boredom, too, is stressful and takes its toll. When a usually even-tempered animal becomes irritable, anti-social, misbehaves, is obsessed with food or else eats and drinks without enthusiasm, constantly licks or chews on himself, he is showing signs of severe stress, and the cause should be sought and alleviated. When discipline or punishment is preferable to being ignored, an animal may misbehave just to gain attention. Worse, he may withdraw from life.

It is "only human" at times to turn inward, disregarding the needs of those around us, but when loving attention from an owner is missing, negative stress can manifest itself in an animal. Sensitive and perceptive, animals are attuned to moods and body language. An animal is the ideal friend with whom to "discuss" problems. So give yours a gentle hug. Well, alright, a great big hug! Teach your cat or dog a new game. Brush him. Enroll in dog obedience class. Take your dog on a brisk walk. Get down on the floor and play with your cat or dog. Act silly with him. Let him do what he does best, be your friend. It's his most important "job," and also what may keep him (and you) from allowing stress to turn into distress or depression. After all, a friend is someone to lean on. And it works both ways.—Submitted by CATHIE SABIN, B.C. Dog Training

People must learn compassion for their fellow creatures

The Institute of Laboratory Animal Research (ILAR) has released a set of 10 principles and guidelines for the use of animals in precollege education to help improve the scientific integrity of precollege research and encourage more humane treatment of animals.

"The point isn't to stop all inquiry," said ILAR Chair Steven Pakes, professor and chairman of comparative medicine at the Univ. of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, Dallas, Texas. "The issue is the appropriate use of animals at that level."

The preface to the guidelines encourages the humane study of animals in precollege education. "Whether as pets in the classroom or as subjects for a biology or science fair project, animals play an important role in education," said Thomas L. Wolfe, DVM, PhD, ILAR Director. "Through these animals, students learn many lessons. They learn important issues of responsibility for other beings and about responsible pet ownership."

Frankly, we think it's high time something was done about this issue. For years, animals have been both mishandled and abused in classroom settings, and virtually no thought was given to it. Now, at last, we have what amounts to a beginning step in the right direction. If we are going to teach our children anything, we must first teach them respect and compassion for their fellow creatures.—by CLEO and BRAD CONRAD

Country Collections exhibition at Harper College

The dawn is just breaking over the horizon. The campus security officer who will direct the waiting caravan of trailers and trucks mulls over the list of those who are expected and takes a last sip of warming coffee. It will be a long morning and afternoon, and there is a lot to get done.

The first in line are those who have come the farthest, often having forsaken sleep for that early slot in line. Having driven through the night, they doze in their trucks, waiting for permission to move closer to the building.

Within hours, the now-empty gym at Harper College will be turned into a modern day gypsy camp, alive with music, sweet scents and laughter. Now the shining floor bears only chalk marks and hastily scrawled names to indicate booth spaces. Soon, anxious crafters will follow their floor plans to their spots. "Will we have enough time to set up?" "Is the weather too bad (or too good) to get a crowd?"

At 6 a.m., the loading doors are raised and the first of the new residents of this gypsy town enter. A quick hello, and the work must begin. There are goods to be unloaded, booths to be set up, merchandise to be put on display, old acquaintances to renew.

These traveling communities are built every weekend throughout the country. Some exhibitors are "neighbors" at shows frequently, others only see each other once or twice a year. "Let's get busy, you can visit later!"

By noon, there will be a barn-raising, as "Country Sisters" hoist the roof of their booth into place. "Do You Need a Hand With That?" A log cabin has earlier taken its place next door, and the garden gazebo of "Catnip Meadows" is taking shape nearby. Further down the road, a gazebo of another kind is assembled from the bent twigs of "Heartfelt Farm," and wallpapered rooms spring up throughout the gym.

Blms of merchandise are opened. "We forgot to put hangers on all of this!" and an obliging "neighbor," done with her set-up, kneels in the booth and asks for a hammer.

A quick break for a lunch time snack means a moment to chat in line. Then on with the work. Trailers back up to the doors in a steady stream. Friends joke, "Not you again," to a long-time show neighbor, or ask "Will that nice guy from Green Bay be here again?" An anxious exhibitor arrives late, and helpful hands see to it that they, too, are ready.

By 2 p.m., with an hour to go, a line begins to form outside. First in line are four ladies from Madison. They are offered folding chairs, which they position at the head of the line. Inside, things move at a fever pitch. Empty boxes are stacked—"Do you have a hammer?" "Can I borrow a few price tags/nails/quarters?" "Do you know where I can buy a light bulb?" Some now have the time to shop in advance of the crowd. "Hold that for me!" "Better grab it—if Deanle sees it, it'll be gone." "These are wonderful!"

A quick cup of coffee and it has all fallen magically into place. Early arrivals now return from their motels in fresh clothing. "Regulars" have slipped into the locker room for a quick shower. The musicians take their places, and the methodical click of Keith Hoskins' loom begins. It is 3 p.m.—show time.

All of this, just for your enjoyment, at Country Collections' show and sale Nov. 11, 12 and 13 at Harper College, Algonquin and Roselle Rds., Palatine. Times: Friday, 3 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is $4,

Gofman sparks Patriots to shot at sectional crown

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

If Glenbrook North volleyball coaches reviewed scouting reports of Stevenson's regional title match, the name Vicki Gofman probably did not come up too often.

Tuesday at the Niles North sectional, the junior played a prominent role in a workmanlike 15-6, 15-9 Stevenson win over Glenbrook North. The sectional semifinal round victory advanced the 36-2-2 Pats to a final round battle with Evanston. Evanston ousted Warren 15-7, 10-15, 15-10. A bid in the Nov. 5 super-sectional at Stevenson was at stake.

"Gofman was injured in the regional, but getting her back for sectional was critical," Stevenson Coach Leanne Ulmer said.

Gofman served for 11 points while Tauja and Tamika Catchings took charge at the net as the Pats pulled away in both games.

"I just wanted to put my serves in. I have been working on hitting all year," Gofman, a 5-8 outside hitter, said.

Although the final scores may not be close, that does not mean the Pats were without a challenge. It was 7-6 Stevenson in game one before Stevenson pulled ahead with Gofman serving.

Her ace doubled the score at 12-6 and brought the Pats to within two points of winning at 13-6. Tamika Catchings then finished the game off.

"I have a lot of confidence in our game," Gofman said.

Stevenson and the Spartans battled to a 6-6 tie in the second game before the Pats grabbed a 9-6 lead on an ace by Gofman, one of four.

A powerful kill by Tamika Catchings through two defenders and one more for good measure made it 11-7.

Colburn closed Stevenson to within a couple of points of the sectional final before the Catchings sisters finished the Spartans off.

"What a fun match to beat them in two games like that. We battled for every point. Especially a lot of net play and saves. It was a tough serving day," Ulmer said.

Tauja Catchings was 15-of-16 with 10 kills. Tamika Catchings contributed 22-of-23 with 14 kills and 2 blocks. Darcie Colburn set up the attack with 39-for-41 with 19 assists.

"Darcie had a great match. It has been about a month since we went to a 5-1," Ulmer said.

"We just want to go one step higher, to another level," Tamika Catchings said.

Lisa Kolcz was 4-of-5 in serves and was 7-of-7 at the net with a kill. She was also 10-of-11 in serve receptions and had a block.

Tamika Catchings was 5-of-7 in serve reception. Junior Dawn Poish was a perfect 6-of-6 serving and 3-of-3 on serve reception.

The Spartans were hoping for a repeat of a three-game September win over Stevenson.

"We did not play well at all and that is unfortunate," Coach Deborah Ofcky said. "Stevenson was the better team for two games."

Walleck finds fountain of youth in California

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

There must be something in the air in California, as former Grayslake resident Bill Walleck earned various medals in swimming and track and field events at the Oldlympics in Hemet, Calif.

The 78-year-old lives in Hemet after living in Grayslake and building homes on Highland Lake.

In the 75-79 age group of the Oldlympics, Walleck placed in the following events: second, 25-yard freestyle swimming; first, 25-yard backstroke; first, 25-yard breast stroke; second, 1-mile walk; first, shot put; first, football toss; first, 40-yard dash; and first, 60-yard dash.

"He is more active than I am," said Walleck's son, Bill Jr. of Johnsburg. "He must have found the fountain of youth out there."

When November rolls around, Walleck Sr. will also be stepping up to the plate in Senior Citizen Softball. The nine-month, 55-and-over league plays games twice a week.

"He just can't sit around," said Walleck Jr. "He always needs to be doing something."

Walleck plays left field and has competed in tournaments in Las Vegas and Palm Springs.

When the multi-talented athlete is not swimming, running or playing baseball, Walleck volunteers at many of his local retirement homes, for he is also a musician. He plays the concertina organ.

Walleck is no stranger to competition. In his younger years, he could be found in Chicago boxing rings, where touted as an amateur in Golden Glove Boxing throughout the 1930s and early '40s.

Walleck visits his family in Johnsburg a couple of times a year, usually returning with stories of his latest athletic triumphs in California. In correspondence with his son, Walleck Sr. notes, "We have no mosquitoes here."

Perez completes goal: ends Ironman with cartwheel

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Laura Perez had a definite plan in mind when she would cross the finish line at the Hawaiian Ironman Competition.

"I decided I wanted to do a cartwheel. This was in honor of gymnastics, which had been so much a part of my life until age 21," Perez said.

And when Perez crossed the finish line in 14 hours, 30 minutes, she did just that - a cartwheel.

"My first goal was to finish under 17 hours because that is when they stop keeping times. It was one of the hottest days of Ironman competition in years. I am very satisfied," she said.

The Mundelein resident recalled some of the tough times running, swimming and biking around Kona, Hawaii.

"The biking was hard. At the end of the race, it is dark and lonely as the crowds have thinned out," she said.

She trained for the event for months, then went to Hawaii one week before the Oct. 15 event. "Swimming in the salt water really helped," she said.

A group of fellow Liberty Road and Track Club members, who train at Libertyville High with Perez, made the trip. They are: Peg and Craig Dean, Linda and Elsen Berg and Maureen Snider and Henry Perez, Laura's husband.

The neighborhood was interested and helped make a "welcome home" sign. Perez's daughter, Rachel, 2 1/2, proudly wears an Ironman competition t-shirt. A cut-up which read "Go Mom" helped as did the banners.

"At about 17-18 miles of the 26-mile marathon, I knew I would finish under the time limit. I said I would finish even if I had to walk," Perez said.

CLC spikers conclude year with loss

Rock Valley played a five-game match with the Lancers bowing out of the post-season tournament.

Rock Valley won 13-15, 15-7, 15-9, 15-15 and 15-10.

"They have a couple of tough servers, but we were disappointed. If we played like we did in the first and fourth games all night, we would have taken them," CLC Coach Sue Garcia said. "We got conservative after we would get a lead." Natalie Ward had another strong match at the net with 19 kills and 4 blocks.

The two teams had split in the N4C-Skyway Conference challenge last week. CLC won 12-10 but lost 11-7. CLC was 4-4 in the event which matched the top four teams from each conference.

CLC downed Harper 11-2, 11-8; beat DuPage 11-3, 11-5; split with Illinois Valley, losing 11-5 but winning 11-4.

Taryn Hartman, a Warren

Township High School grad, had 14 points and 3 aces. Stacey Harrison, a Carmel grad, was 20-for-24 serving with 16 points and an ace.

Ward, a Wauconda grad, had 22 kills. "She is tough at the net," Garcia said. CLC finished 22-27-3.

"Overall, we had a better team than the record indicated. We beat some tough teams but we lost to some teams we should have beat. All in all, it was a good year," Garcia said.

Mustang spikers advance to sectional final

Although the scores look like the Mundelein spikers won convincingly, Coach Dan Szymkowiak said a total team effort was needed to capture the sectional semifinal match.

For the second year in a row, the Mustangs will advance to the sectional final match. They advanced by defeating Elgin 15-11, 15-4.

In the first game, Mundelein had to overcome a 11-7 deficit to defeat Elgin.

"The first game really took a team effort to get through it. Our backs were to the walls," Szymkowiak said.

Kandace Kessel led the Mustangs with 12 points and six kills. As a server, she also led the Mustangs to four straight points to tie the first game 11-11 all before Mundelein regained its exposure to go on to win. Lynn T'Niemi contributed to the strong offensive attack with 10 points and two aces.

"When it came down to it, what won it for us was our passing, defense and consistent offense. All seven players played important roles," Szymkowiak said.

He took special notice of Lisa Guilianelli and Christy Sabo with important digs. Guilianelli had 9, while Sabo added 8.

Mundelein squared off against Schaumburg (30-8) Thursday for the sectional title. Led by Lindsay Trudell, Schaumburg defeated Antioch 15-7, 15-7.

Mundelein defeated Schaumburg earlier in the season, but Szymkowiak said both teams "have come a long way since then." Trudell provided Schaumburg with 17 kills against Antioch.

"It's going to take another complete, team effort to beat Schaumburg," Szymkowiak said. "But we're playing well and that's what we're focusing on."

Willgress, Leffelman advance to state meet

Andrew Willgress and Drew Leffelman will both have something in common at the state cross country meet at Detweiler Park in Peoria.

Both have been at the course before, competing last year. They qualified through the Schaumburg sectional, the same sectional which took them to Peoria last year.

"The experience should help them tremendously. They know the course and know where to stay out of trouble," LHS Coach Bill Dortch said.

Willgress, a sophomore, finished third in 14:58 at Busse Woods. Lou Petricca of Prospect won the meet in 14:35. Jeremy Arndt of Waukegan, the runner most area runners have been chasing all year, was second in 14:47.

Leffelman, a senior, was 12th in 15:30. The Wildcats were seventh as a team with 203 points in the meet won by Prospect.

"I hope Willgress finishes in the top 10 and Leffelman in the top 25," Dortch said.

"Andrew is attacking the course instead of running single file. Drew has increased his leg speed. Both are not satisfied to drop back to a 'happy pace'," Dortch said. Other area team qualifiers had Carmel finishing 18th with 482 points and Antioch was 19th of 20 teams.

Antioch Vikings advance to championship

Featherweight

The Antioch Raiders defeated Warren White in overtime. The Raiders appeared to control the offense throughout the game, but several key penalties resulted in a lack of scoring.

In the first half, Craig Elbc scored from four yards out. Warren tied the game late in the fourth quarter to go into overtime.

Bobby Grasser scored on a one-yard run to put pressure on the Warren offense. Then Grasser sealed the win on a game-ending interception. Defensively, Jeff Norwich, Brian Griffin and Justin McBride played well.

The Raiders are 7-1 overall and face the winner of the Round Lake/Warren Blue contest for the league championships at 10 a.m. on Sunday at Antioch.

Pee Wee Black

The Pee Wee Black team led by coach R.J. Howard and Tom Hosick and coach Hartman. Thanks for a great season to Matt Bornbahl, Danny Basler, Jesse Silva and Peter Ney, Sam Carden and Jason Kralizig.

Antioch scored first on a 12-yard run by Trent (TD) Domel, with great blocking from Jeff Kennedy and Kevin Mathewson. But Mundelein answered early in the second half to tie. With 26 seconds left, the Stallions scored from five yards out to go on to the championship against Warren.

Middleweight

Falcons beat the Crystal Lake Raiders. Offensive standouts included Justin Pawlowski (9 rushing for 106 yards, one touchdown); Noah Hammond (4-8 passing for 60 yards and one touchdown);

Charlie Pawlowski (65-yard punt return for a touchdown).

On defense, Hammond had two interceptions, as did Pawlowski. George Katis had two sacks, and Chris Wegner had four tackles and two sacks. Mr. "D," Conrad Adkins, had eight tackles and three sacks.

Lightweight

The Lightweight beat McHenry 31-0. Ken Adelizzi tallied three times from 37-55-40 yards. Jack Lorong scored on a 56-yard pass from quarterback Dan Kelly. Adam Nillea picked up a fumble and ran 55 yards for a touchdown.

Chris DeBoard had two fumble recoveries, and Nick Rossi had an interception. Paul Booker played good defense, and Nick Balen and Jarrod Ponce were great offensively, opening holes for the backs.

Heavyweight

The Heavyweights also won and will play for the championship on Sunday.

Barrington ties Downers Grove

Barrington Squirts I hockey team traveled to Franklin Park and defeated the Panthers by the score of 7-2.

It was the first game of the regular season and the Wings found themselves well prepared for this game. The defense of Ryan Karjolic, Jonathan Wolfsberger, Mark Voss and Blake Debaun was so strong that goalie Bryan Johnson had an easier time than usual defending the nets.

Barrington Wings goals were scored by Spencer Shully and Dennis Marchetti, each with two; Andrew Wallor, Peter Denley and Mark Voss, all with one each. Assists are credited to Alan Johnson, with two; Marchetti, John Lavelle, Chad Inglat and Erik Meyer, all with one assist each.

The Barrington Squirts I entertained the Downers Grove Huskies at home and played to a 3-3 tie.

Throughout the majority of the game, the Barrington Wings outplayed the Huskies, but Downers Grove pulled their goalie and added a sixth skater and finally tied the score very late in the game.

Barrington goalie Bryan Johnson saved 18 shots in this game. Wings goals by Spencer Shully with two, and Allan Johnson and John Lavelle, each with one. Outstanding team effort was displayed by Blake Debaun, Peter Denley, Peter Hixson, Chad Inglat, Ryan Karjolic, Erik Meyer, Mark Voss, Andrew Wallor and Jonathan Wolfsberger.

Patriots advance in playoffs, while 'Cats, Devils, Bears fall

Stevenson 26, Romeoville 25

Shea Newcomb's touchdown run with 6:11 left and Ryan Kellar's two-point conversion allowed Stevenson to survive 26-25 in Lincolnshire.

The Pats (8-2) move on to face Downers Grove South (10-0) at 7 p.m. Nov. 4 in the second round of Class 6A playoffs.

Newcomb also scored on a 3-yard run. Rob Liska scored two more touchdowns. Stevenson trailed 25-18 when Kellar capped a long drive.

A fumble recovery by soph Michael Cocoran led to a courageous decision by Coach Mill Mitz. He elected to go for a first down on fourth-and-two from his own 11 as opposed to punting into a fierce wind.

Newcomb ran for three yards and Stevenson ran out the clock. Brian Cohen led the defense with 14 tackles.

Wheaton-Warrenville South 44, Libertyville 7

Libertyville played Class 6A powerhouse Wheaton tough for three quarters, but the fourth quarter quickly turned the tides against Libertyville.

Quarterback Chris Fulbright led the Wildcats on their only scoring drive. On a QB keeper, Fulbright rushed 43 yards. Eluding five Wheaton defenders, Fulbright scrambled and threw across the field to an open Ben Grindel in the end zone for a 14-yd touchdown reception.

Defenders Toff Fletcher, Brian Laughlin and Tim Beshel had key fourth-down sacks when Wheaton threatened in the third quarter.

Wheaton scored 31 unanswered points in the fourth quarter to spoil Coach Randy Kuceyeski's debut in the playoffs. This was his first season as Libertyville head coach.

Palatine 42, Warren 6

A 35-yard fumble recovery and touchdown run by Quijuan Greathouse was the only Warren highlight. Palatine (8-2) scored the next 35 points. Warren closes the season at 7-3.

Joliet Catholic Academy 41, Lake Zurich 7

Lake Zurich running back Mike Stumpp took a screen pass from quarterback Eric Block and raced 70 yards to tie the game 7-7 in the first quarter.

As a junior-oriented team, Lake Zurich had a tough opponent in JCA, a perennial favorite in Class 4A playoff action. Stumpp garnered 38 yards on the ground, while Mike Shaudek led the Lake Zurich ground attack with 58 yards.

Bears reach top in FVC

The Bears suffered a quick exit from post-season play, losing to Lake Forest 1-0 in the Mundelein Sectional Complex.

"We were co-champs in the Fox Valley Conference but were disappointed we did not go farther in the tournament," Coach Scott Steib said. "We had our chances but could not finish it off."

The Scouts, seeded 12th, scored their goal in the first half. LZ came into the tourney as the fifth seed.

Jeff McKenna finished as the Bears leading scorer with 18 goals from his midfield spot. "He is very quick and is usually near the ball," Steib stated.

Matt Lange and Chris Bocci each had 10 goals. The top three scorers are all juniors.

The Bears, who finish 15-5-3 and 12-2 FVC, must replace goalie Gregg Zaffke. Zaffke surrendered .88 goals a game.

"We will have three of our four starters on defense back," Steib said.

Dasso's third highlights year

A third-place state tennis banner may soon join the dozens of banners which lie across a wall at the Stevenson High Sports Center.

Michelle Dasso brought back memories of Andrea Yeager with her third-place finish which was a call or two away from a state championship bid in singles.

"Dasso played a very tough match," Coach Dave Willms said.

Dasso lost to Katherine Nasser of Hersey 7-6 (7-5), 6-1 but bounced back to down Alice Rangsitthienchai of Homewood-Floosmoor 6-0, 5-4 (retired with injury).

The match against Nasser provided the controversy. "The set was announced as Dasso winning, but an umpire ruled on a point and Nasser won. That changed the momentum," Willms said.

Dasso had downed Nasser earlier.

Dasso advanced to the finals with winning 7-5, 6-1 over Sterling's Megan Baker; downing Simone Kung of Niles West in a three-set battle. After losing 6-3, Dasso recovered and won 6-3, 6-2.

Dasso finished 34-1. Caroline Roth also earned points at state and finished 31-3. She downed Annamaria Juhasz of Hindsale Central 6-0, 6-0 but then lost to Michelle Matko of Aurora West 3-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Stevenson can look back on North Suburban Conference and sectional titles.

As for the future, Willms can look forward to freshmen doubles players Carrie Christopher and Laura Wagner.

Conviser who encouraged, or was it challenged her to make the trip. Perez had qualified for the Boston marathon this spring.

The competition will be shown on NBC-TV in December. Remember, the 1,196th finisher doing the cartwheel is from your neck of the woods.

Hall of Fame inducts new members

The number of sports figures inducted into the Waukegan Sports Hall of Fame now has topped the 40 plateau with members.

The newest members were inducted into the Hall of Fame, sponsored by Waukegan Lions Club, were: Joe Hall, deceased Leonard Machak, Martin Silovich, Ralph Tekampe and Jerome Whitehead.

It would be difficult if not impossible for the other 41 to top Tekampe when it comes to inspiration.

Tekampe played football, basketball and baseball for grades six through eight at Immaculate Conception and later Waukegan High School.

During his prep days, he played with the likes of Rick Bay, Ed Shultis and Tony Seals. In 1964, while on the job for a moving company, a 34,500 pound crane fell on him, severely injuring his spinal cord. Seven years later he lost his left leg due to infection.

Tekampe has simply not let the handicap stop him. Each day he serves as playground supervisor at the Waukegan school and is getting ready for year another basketball season.

"I enjoy watching the kids develop," he said. "Everybody plays on my team."

He has coached many a talented Bulldog, including girls hoops standout Kelly Stancil.

All who were present at the Keith Ryan Scholarship Dinner were surprised when they found the news in various ways. All had different memories from decades in sports.

"Marquette always used to lose to the University of Wisconsin, but we beat them twice in the four years I was there," Silovich said.

"Football has always been my forte," he commented.

He was named to All-star games and the Marquette team was in the top 10. He received offers from the Bears, Chicago Cardinals, Green Bay Packers, Cleveland Browns, Detroit Lions and Boston Yanks, but decided to enter the business world. He concluded the football career with the semi-pro Waukegan Merchants.

"You remember the friendships in sports," Hall said.

Hall said Coach Jack Mallory had a big influence on him. "He was a very patient teacher. He was so dedicated to his team," he said.

The best moment came for Hall when the Bulldogs came within a few outs of playing for the state baseball title his senior year. Evanston edged Waukegan 1-0 and went on to win the title with Waukegan taking third. "You will never forget it," he said.

Hall played guard and full-back in football, following a family tradition. That continues as his son plays football at Glenbrook South. His father blocked for Otto Graham and his brother blocked for Rick Bay.

Hall played his college football at Northwestern University. "I saw both sides of Northwestern football. we were 1-9 my sophomore year then 6-5 my senior year. Northwestern was a great place to go and get an education," he said.

Hall played baseball at Northwestern, named captain in 1971. He was drafted by the New York Yankees. He has an MBA degree from NU's Kellogg School of Management.

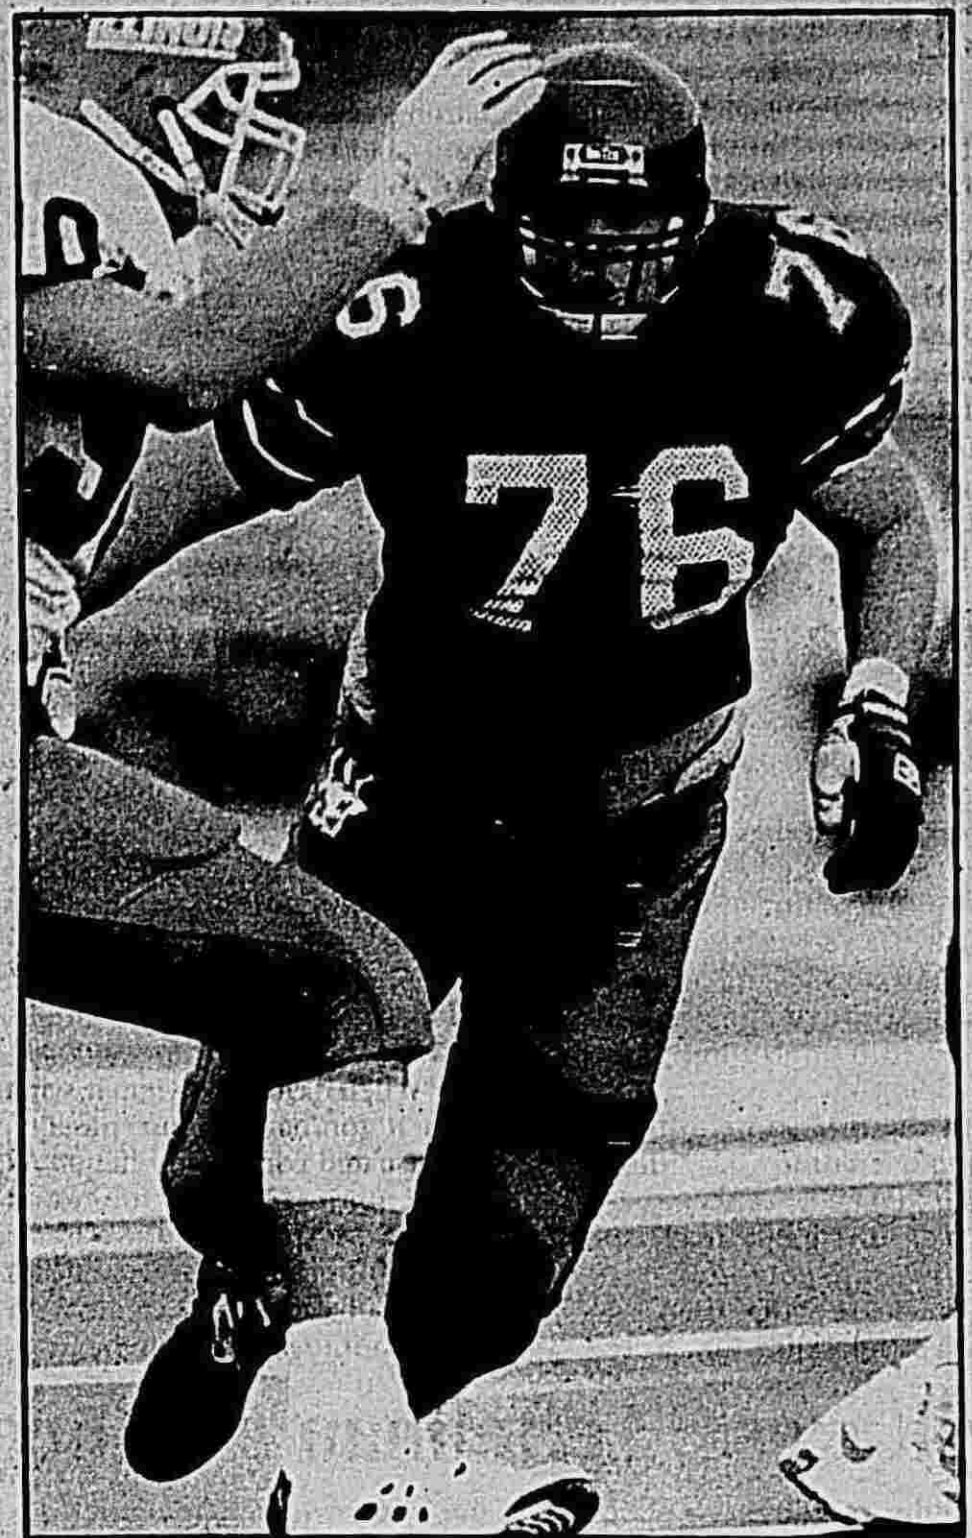

Hall works for Unisys Corp. in Lombard.

Also honored was Machak. He was a two-way starter on offense and defense for the Waukegan High team in 1936, 1937 and 1938. He went on to star at University of Illinois and later the Waukegan Merchants. He retired after 30 years of service to Prudential Insurance Co. He died July 27, 1993.

Whitehead is best known for his part in the 1977 national championship won by Marquette and the Sweet Sixteen Waukegan team of 1973. It was his buzzer-beater in the semifinals which beat North Carolina Charlotte. Then Al McGuire dubbed him an "aircraft carrier."

Now living in San Diego, he is employed by Pace Sports as a career development consultant.

More than 200 persons attended the dinner at Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth.

Oakwood Tennis Club to expand tennis program

Celeste Pregracke, Waukegan resident and tennis teaching professional, will be expanding the tennis program at the Oakwood Tennis Club. Teaming up with Pregracke will be Becky Gifford of Long Grove.

A variety of programs, including days and evenings, will be offered for all ages and all levels of play. Some players will be introduced to the basic stroking while others will be working on more advanced techniques and strategy.

High school teams will continue practice during their off season with a series of fast paced drills covering all aspects of the games plus a review of proper stroking.

The special population will also have an opportunity every Tuesday at 6 p.m. as Pregracke, Gifford and their volunteers teach the players from the Lambs Farm.

Pregracke brings to Oakwood 30 years of professional teaching and highly organized programs. She has been recognized locally, state wide and nationally for her work in the game of tennis.
